VERFRONT SUIT REVIEW DENIED BY SUPREME COURT

Decision Lets Stand Refusal of Injunction to Objectors Seeking to Stop Work on Memorial.

PELLATE RULING ON TECHNICALITY

Held City of St. Louis, Not a Defendant, Was an Indispensable Party to Action.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 1.—The Supreme Court apparently ended controversy over the Thomas Jefferson Memorial project today by refusing to review a decision of the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals denying an injunction to property owners who had tried to stop work on the project.

The court denied the petition for writ of certiorari sought by 37 St. Louis property owners, who argued that the project would force them to move into more expensive quarters subject them to the cost of moving their equipment.

Denying the petition of certiorari, the court in effect affirmed the decision of the court below which was based on the legal technicality that the city of St. Louis was an indispensable party to the suit. The city refused to sue a party defendant, and the court for the property owners held that this situation created a "man's land" in which a city was deprived of its rights to the constitutional right of a citizen to sue a party defendant.

Merits Not Passed On.
Limiting the scope of the suit to the legal question of whether the city of St. Louis was an indispensable party to the suit, the court of appeals declined to pass on the merits of the case. The question presented to the court was whether the court below erred in holding that an injunction should be denied on the ground that in circumstances here presented the city of St. Louis was an indispensable party defendant.

The issue in the suit was $6,750,000 relief fund allocated for the Jefferson Memorial. The suit was filed in the District of Columbia Circuit Court in June 1936. This court held that the Federal allotment was within the Historic Sites Act of Aug. 21, 1936. The District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals held the decision of the lower court on the ground that there was a contract between the Federal Government and the city of St. Louis and that third party could not interfere with the two parties of the contract.

Objectioners Plan New Suits.
Immediately after the Supreme court had announced its decision to review the case, Edmund M. Land, attorney for 37 St. Louis property owners, announced that he would start new suits in St. Louis and Washington in an effort to stop the project for which $6,000,000 in relief funds have been allocated.

Land said that in new injunction suits he would name Federal officials, Secretary of the Interior, Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of War and National Parks Director, and the St. Louis city.

MOSCOW IN DIRECT TELEPHONE CONTACT WITH NORTH POLE

Soviet Explorers Talk With Wives Over Two-Way Radio Hookup.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, June 1.—Direct telephone service to the North Pole started late last night. Soviet explorers close to the Pole talked with their wives in Moscow on a direct two-way radio telephone hookup established at 11:35 p. m. after several days of experimentation.

The radio telephone aboard Mikhail Vodopyanov's plane was used on a 33-meter wave length. Previously the Comintern station in Moscow had broadcast a special program for the Polar party, sending them news reports of the Spanish civil war and a special concert.

The temperature today at the North pole base was 24.8 degrees Fahrenheit, with an overcast sky. Fog limited visibility to 1640 to 2280 feet. There was a strong north-west wind.

The position of the ice floe camp was 89° 58' degrees north and 33° 28' degrees west.

MUSSOLINI FLIES TO ROME TO MEET NAZI WAR MINISTER

Meeting Tomorrow Arranged With Marshal von Blomberg, Who Also Arrives by Plane.

ROME, June 1.—Premier Mussolini flew back to Rome today at the controls of a tri-motored plane and arranged to discuss Italy's part in the grave Spanish situation with Marshal Werner von Blomberg, German War Minister.

He reached Lido airport in his plane after a flight from Rocca delle Caminate, where he had been spending a holiday, and drove at once to the Venezia Palace. He will see von Blomberg, who likewise arrived by plane, early tomorrow afternoon.

Officials disclosed tonight Italian warships had been ordered to prevent Russian vessels from supplying war materials to the Spanish Government.

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Mostly cloudy tonight and tomorrow, probably showers and thunderstorms; cooler tonight.

ROOSEVELT ASKS CONGRESS TO STOP TAX LOOPHOLES

Says in Message "Minority of Very Rich" Are Challenging Government's Power to Collect Levies.

BILL INTRODUCED FOR INQUIRY BY CONGRESS

Evasion So Widespread and Bold That Action at This Session Is Imperative, President Declares.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Roosevelt asked Congress today to stop tax dodging "by a minority of a very rich individuals." The President, in a message saying evasion by the wealthy shifts the tax load to those less able to pay, urged legislation at this session "specifically and exclusively aimed at making the present tax structure evasion-proof."

"We face a challenge to the power of the Government to collect, uniformly, fairly and without discrimination, taxes based on statutes adopted by Congress," he said.

He said the full power of the Government would be thrown behind a Treasury investigation of income tax evasion and avoidance, and asked for authorization to expand the inquiry, giving the Treasury full power to summon witnesses and compel testimony.

The President transmitted a preliminary report on the investigation, and expressed confidence Congress would share with him a feeling of indignation at findings of evasion.

The report, he said, "reveals efforts at avoidance and evasion of tax liability, so widespread and so amazing in their boldness and their ingenuity, that further action without delay seems imperative."

Resolution for Inquiry.
Immediately after reading of the message, Senator Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, introduced a joint resolution to authorize an investigation of income tax evasion.

Although the President had proposed an inquiry by the Treasury, the resolution was quickly adopted.

Tax evaders to whom the President referred in his message, but did not name, would be permitted to come before the joint committee and make "any defense" they wanted, Harrison said.

He declined to name those cited by the President. There are a variety of tax-dodging methods, Mr. Roosevelt said in his message, explaining:

"Some are instances of avoidance which appear to have the color of legality; others are on the border line of legality; others are plainly contrary even to the letter of the law."

"All are alike in that they are definitely contrary to the spirit of the law."

THEATER OWNERS SEEK ACCOUNTING OF DEFENSE FUND

Members Ask What Became of $15,000 Raised During Negotiation With Union Operators.

PART SAID TO HAVE GONE FOR PICNICS

Louis Ansell of Labor Committee Says He Knows Nothing of Money Collected Last Fall.

By the Associated Press.
Some St. Louis members of the Moving Picture Theater Owners' Association of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois are wondering what has become of a "defense fund" of about $15,000 collected from them last September, when they were negotiating a wage contract with union moving picture projection operators.

Two members of the association have told the Post-Dispatch that they were each assessed $150 for the fund by the association's labor committee, handling negotiations with the union, whose members then were seeking a wage increase of $10 a week.

The labor committee sought the fund, these informants said, "to settle the wage controversy." Subsequently the union agreed to a one-year contract which called for no increase in the basic pay of projection operators, although the new contract did provide minor increases for some operators, according to the seating capacity of theaters in which they were employed.

Existence of the $15,000 fund was at first denied by Clarence H. Kaimann, owner of several North St. Louis theaters and a member of the labor committee of the owners' association, when a Post-Dispatch reporter asked him about it. When the reporter told him members of the association had stated they gave him their contributions, he admitted that such a fund had been raised.

"Used for Many Purposes."
"There was one, the same as many organizations have," Kaimann told the reporter. "It was used for many purposes."

To a request for more specific information about the use made of the money, Kaimann replied: "Picnics, and things like that."

Max Sanowski, owner of the Fair Theater at 5640 Easton avenue, told the reporter he had given Kaimann a check for $150 last September to pay his assessment.

Sanowski said he was agreed on at a meeting of theater owners held at the Knights of Columbus Building, 3547 Olive street, during the contract negotiations with the Projection Operators' Union.

The labor committee told us: "You pay your assessments, and let us handle the matter." Sanowski related to the reporter. "So we paid." Those present, Sanowski said, understood "the matter" to be a settlement of the demand for an increased wage by the projection operators.

Another theater owner, who would not permit use of his name, gave an account similar to Sanowski's of the manner in which the fund was collected and the purpose for which it was to be used.

Producers $150 Canceled Check.
This theater owner exhibited to the reporter a canceled check for $150 which he said, represented payment of his assessment. The check was made payable to "Kaimann and Landau" and was endorsed in that fashion on its reverse side. It bore no other endorsement.

Gov. Stark Proposes Former St. Louis Bar Association Head for Police Board.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—The name of Samuel H. Liberman, former president of the St. Louis Bar Association, was submitted to Gov. Stark by the Senate this afternoon, as an appointee to the St. Louis Police Board, in place of John J. Nangle, whose appointment the Governor asked permission to withdraw.

The Governor's communication, withdrawing Nangle's name and substituting that of Liberman, was referred to the Senate committee on Municipal Corporations. The committee has had in its hands, for more than three months, the Governor's nominations of William L. Igoe and Frank B. Coleman for Police Board positions.

Nangle recently asked the Governor to withdraw his name, after it became known that the Senate committee was unwilling to act favorably on his appointment.

The only Police Board appointment which has been reported by the committee, and confirmed by the Senate, thus far, is that of Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, a member of the old board, whom the Governor designated as his choice for president of the new board.

Igoe, reappointed by the Governor as a member, is still serving as president of the old board. Coleman, a lawyer, is a new appointee. Nangle is also a lawyer. He pleaded the demands of his practice in requesting withdrawal of his name.

JURY TO INVESTIGATE ATTACK ON C I O MEN AT FORD PLANT

Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea Issues Subpoenas for Several Witnesses.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., June 1.—Duncan C. McCrea, Wayne County prosecutor, announced today a grand jury would investigate the rioting which attended an attempt by the United Automobile Workers to distribute handbills at the Ford Motor company's Rouge plant in suburban Dearborn last Wednesday.

The prosecutor issued subpoenas for several witnesses including Mayor John L. Carey and Police Chief Carl A. Brooks of Dearborn. The witnesses would be taken before a Common Pleas Court grand jury, McCrea said.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—The management of the Richmond plant of the Ford Motor Co. was charged with violating the Wagner Act, in a complaint filed today with the National Labor Relations Board by Frank Slaby, president of the Richmond local of the United Automobile Workers of America, a C I O affiliate, which called a strike in the plant last week.

The complaint charged the plant management intimidated workers and prevented them from exercising their rights under the Wagner Act.

Reich Announces That Bombardment of City in Retaliation for Bombing of Warship, Closes the Incident.

NON-INTERVENTION SESSION PUT OFF

Effort Made, Meantime, to Get Rome and Berlin to Renew Agreement They Withdrew From After Deutschland Affair.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 1.—Great Britain joined Germany and Italy today in protesting to the Spanish Government against violence against neutral shipping.

The British stand was calculated to give reassurance to Berlin and Rome that their demands on the Spanish Government were justified. In Berlin the official position was that the bombardment of Almeria in reprisal had "closed" the incident of the Spanish bombing of the German battleship Deutschland.

The British stand was calculated to obtain safety of shipping through the creation by the Spanish Government of safety zones for neutral warships.

British spokesmen said the Government was not taking sides, but was striving only to reform the framework of the international "hands off Spain" committee, now weakened by Italian and German withdrawals following the bombing of a German pocket battleship.

England's Protest.
The British protest was based on an attack on the British flotilla leader, H. M. S. Hardy, off Palma, Mallorca, on May 28. The foreign office said the ship was almost hit by aerial bombs.

The British Charge d'Affaires at Valencia delivered the protest and received from the Spanish Government apparent assurances of its readiness to establish desired "safety zones" for neutral warships off Palma.

Informal quarters stated that, while the Government deplored such attacks as the Spanish Government's aerial bombing of the German pocket battleship Deutschland, there was no thought of condoning the Reich's retaliatory bombardment of Almeria, on the Spanish coast.

Guns from five German warships, ranged off the ancient Mediterranean port, fired 200 shells yesterday, killing 30 or more and causing widespread destruction. The cannonade, German officials said, settled the score for 25 sailors killed in the Deutschland's bombing.

No Investigation.
No government, meanwhile, was willing to undertake an investigation either of the Deutschland or Almeria incidents. Official statements said that "full facts are not available."

The Reich charged that Spanish Government flyers provoked the incident by dropping bombs on the Deutschland while it was at anchor in the Balearic Island harbor, temporarily off duty from the non-intervention patrol. Valencia insists the flyers attacked only after the Deutschland's anti-aircraft guns fired.

11 More Executed in Siberian Plots, Running Total to 66.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, June 1.—The execution of 11 more persons accused of railway sabotage under the direction of a "Japanese intelligence organization" at Khabarovsk, Siberia, was disclosed yesterday, increasing to 66 the total executed during May in the Far East.

Those executed, all former railway officials, were convicted at a way session of the military collegium of the supreme court on charges they were "participants in a Trotskyist spy terroristic organization which acted under the control and on orders of a Japanese intelligence organization in the Far East."

ALBANY, N. Y., June 1.—Gov. Lehman signed today a bill subjecting the salaries of public officials and judges to New York's personal income tax. advance of the maturity date. The court agreed to pass on a judgment against Taft by the United States Court of Claims. Taft is a son of William Howard Taft, one time President and Chief Justice.

The suit was filed on behalf of the Dixie Terminals Co., of Cincinnati, headed by Taft. He held a $50 Liberty bond paying 4 1/2 per cent interest. It was due to mature Oct. 15, 1938, but the Treasury called it in for redemption Oct. 15, 1934. Taft demanded gold for interest beyond the call date. The Treasury turned down the request and the Court of Claims upheld the Government.

The Government, Taft contends, is obligated to pay gold, but he is not suing for gold but merely claiming the right to interest until maturity.

Government Loss in Effort to Prevent Trial of TVA Suit.

The Government lost in the Supreme Court today in its effort to prevent a trial before the United States District Court of Eastern Tennessee to determine whether the Tennessee Valley Authority could expand its power program in eight states.

The court refused to review a decision of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals ordering trial of litigation filed by the Tennessee Electric Power Co. and 18 other private utilities in an effort to curtail the TVA activities.

In taking that action, the Circuit Court set aside an order by the District Court temporarily halting the TVA from proceeding with new construction already under way.

States involved are Tennessee, Alabama, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky, Mississippi and Georgia.

Court Refuses to Pass on Damage Suit Against Bank Directors.

Beneficial stockholders of the Louisville Trust Co. lost in the Supreme Court today in their effort to obtain damages from former directors for alleged "mismanagement" and "the commission of illegal acts by them which caused millions of dollars' damage to the corporation."

The court refused to pass on the action of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals and the United States District Court of Western Kentucky dismissing suit. They held that refusal of the present board of directors to institute suit had not been sufficiently shown.

The Supreme Court appeal was filed by Greenberry Simmons, Louisville attorney, on behalf of Margaret W. Long and George M. Cushing for the benefit of the trust company.

A review has been granted of litigation filed by the receiver of the National Bank of Kentucky, Louisville, in an effort to collect $3,876,000 from non-officer directors of the institution alleged to have been negligent in administering its affairs.

Review Refused in Arizona Newspaper Tax Case.

The Supreme Court refused today to pass on litigation involving constitutionality of an Arizona law imposing a 1 per cent tax on the gross income of newspapers derived from advertisements and notices. The State Supreme Court upheld the 1935 legislation.

The appeal was filed by Girigi Bros., publishers, and by Southside Publishing Co., who originally challenged the law in the Maricopa County Superior Court. The Supreme Court dismissed the appeal "for the want of a substantial federal question."

It Will Hear Charges June 8 of Law Violation March 12, When Mayor Was Chosen.

ALL OF ACCUSED IN FOURTH WARD

This Is Dominated by Jimmy Miller—the 14 Clerks in Precincts Involved Not Named.

cent below estimates, had disclosed "conditions so serious that immediate action is called for."

Morgenstau requested an appropriation to intensify and enlarge the inquiry, saying this expenditure would be recovered many times over. If tax evasion and avoidance are stamped out promptly, he continued, the Treasury will recover "a very large portion" of the revenue deficiency.

$140,000,000 Deficiency.

The March deficiency was $140,000,000 under estimates. Mr. Roosevelt has estimated it will be $287,000,000 for the full fiscal year ending June 30.

The President urged Congress to confine its tax legislation to plugging loopholes in present laws, repeating an earlier suggestion that there be no new taxes and no general rate revision at this session.

He said the Treasury would supply by next November a general tax survey, on the basis of which "the Congress may, if it chooses, undertake revisions of the tax structure."

"The long-term problem of tax policy is wholly separate from the immediate problem of glaring evasion and avoidance of existing law," he continued.

"In this immediate problem the decency of American morals is involved.

"The example of successful tax dodging by a minority of very rich individuals breeds efforts by other people to dodge other laws as well as tax laws."

"The President said efforts already are being made to baffle the tax evasion issue. He continued:

"Already certain newspapers publish advertisements to make it appear—that if an individual can devise unanticipated methods to avoid taxes which the Congress intended him to pay he is doing nothing unpatriotic or unethical; and, second, that because certain individuals do not approve of high income tax brackets; or the undistributed earnings tax, or the capital gains tax, the first duty of the Congress should be the repeal or reduction of those taxes."

"In other words, not one but many red herrings are in preparation.

Tax Lawyers Criticized.

"It is also a matter of deep regret to know that lawyers of high standing at the bar not only have advised and are advising their clients to utilize tax avoidance devices, but are actively using these devices in their own personal affairs."

"We hear too often from lawyers, as well as from their clients the sentiment, 'It is all right to do it if you can get away with it.'"

All three branches of Government are concerned jointly with tax evasions, the President said. Congress should eliminate loopholes, he continued, and the executive branch should investigate fully all questionable cases, prosecute where wrong has been done and make recommendations for closing loopholes.

"It is the duty of the courts," the President said, "to give full consideration to the intent of the Congress in passing tax laws and to give full points to all evidence which points to an objective of evasion on the part of the taxpayers."

HARRY HALL KNIGHT MARRIES IN NEW YORK

Mrs. Mary Christy Tiffany Pratt Bride of Former St. Louisan.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Harry Hall Knight, wealthy former St. Louisan and one of the backers of the Lindbergh flight, and Mrs. Mary Christy Tiffany Pratt, daughter of Mrs. George S. Tiffany of St. Louis, were married here this afternoon in the Municipal Chapel with Deputy City Clerk Philip A. Hines performing the ceremony.

Both the bride and the bridegroom have been divorced. Mrs. Knight gave her age as 32 and Knight gave his as 39. After the ceremony they left on a honeymoon for "an unannounced destination" in the West.

The wedding was performed in the presence of members of both families. Mrs. Clarence O. Gamble of St. Louis, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor and the bride's brother, George S. Tiffany, of Syosset, N. Y., was best man.

Knight, a bond share broker and so on the late Harry French Knight, was divorced in St. Louis Oct. 20. His wife, the former Erwin Hayward of St. Louis, whom he had married in 1923, charged general indignities and testified that Knight told her he no longer loved her. A property settlement had been reached out of court.

Mrs. Knight obtained a Reno divorce on June 17, 1925, from John T. Pratt Jr. of New York, son of Mrs. Ruth Pratt, former Republican Congresswoman from New York. She charged extreme cruelty. They had been married in August, 1925, and have four children.

Mrs. Knight, who gave her present address as 530 East Eighty-sixth street, New York, wore a blue crepe gown with a small, natural-colored straw hat, and brown orchids. Mrs. Gamble wore a navy blue ensemble trimmed with white and navy accessories. The Tiffany country home is at Chesterfield, Mo.

Knight gave his New York address as 1230 Park avenue.

GARGOTTA CASE CONTINUED ATTORNEY IS LEGISLATOR

Kansas City Prisoner Accused of Shooting at Sheriff Four Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 1.—The oldest case on the Circuit Court criminal docket here, that of Charles Gargotta, charged with attempting to kill a sheriff nearly four years ago, was postponed again today. It was one of five cases automatically postponed until Sept. 13, the next jury term of court, because attorneys in each case are members of the Missouri Legislature, still in session. Edgar J. Keating is Gargotta's attorney.

The charge against Gargotta was filed after a fight here Aug. 12, 1933, in which Ferris Anthon was killed. Thomas B. Bash, then sheriff of Jackson County, happened on the scene of the killing.

Gargotta was tried for murder and acquitted in Federal Court. Sheriff Bash testified that Gargotta shot at him and then dropped his pistol, begging for mercy.

He created by his resolution. This committee would get all the information now available to the Treasury and would be aided by Treasury experts in making its inquiry, he explained.

BARTENDER FOUND MURDERED; BODY IN SHALLOW GRAVE

Fred Alberthal Shot to Death, Buried in County Field—Missing Since April 9.

The body of a man who had been shot to death and buried in a shallow grave in a wooded field off Ringer road, about three-quarters of a mile east of Lemay Ferry road, St. Louis County, was identified today as that of Fred Alberthal, bartender in a tavern at Lindbergh boulevard and Gravois road.

Identification was established at the Fendler undertaking establishment, 744 Lemay Ferry road, by Alberthal's employer, Paul Reeb, and by Claude George, a mechanic in a garage where Alberthal's automobile had been unclaimed since repairs were completed April 10.

Reeb said he had discharged Alberthal April 9, and had not heard from him since then. A waitress in the tavern, Miss Mildred Scott, said Alberthal had worked, after leaving the tavern, as a used-car salesman. Someone who said he was Alberthal, she said, telephoned her sister last Friday to inquire about her.

Identification of Victim.

Reeb and George, and George's employer, Ted Walker, owner of a garage at 234 Lemay Ferry road, went to the Fendler undertaking establishment today to view the body after reading newspaper reports of his finding yesterday when Reeb and George to believe that the murdered man was Alberthal.

George was aided in making the identification by a tattooed figure of a boxer on the murdered man's chest. He had noticed such a figure on the Alberthal's chest, he said, when Alberthal called him to Reeb's tavern April 7 to take charge of his disabled automobile.

When the automobile remained unclaimed, George sought the aid of the State Highway Patrol in seeking its owner. The Highway Patrol office in Kirkwood learned from Jefferson City that license plates on the car had been issued to Alberthal and paid for with a worthless check. At the request of the Jefferson City office, officers from the Kirkwood station took possession of the license plates.

Alberthal was about 40 years old. Reeb said he had worked for him for about a month before he disappeared, and during the month lived at the tavern. Previously, he said, Alberthal had lived in Jefferson City.

There were three bullet holes in the back of Alberthal's head, and Coroner John O'Connell said he had no evidence that he had been badly beaten. A coroner's verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown was returned at the inquest this morning.

Farm Owner Finds Body.

The body was discovered, shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, by August Keim, 7335 Vermont avenue, who, with his 10-year-old son, August Jr., had been inspecting a farm he owns in the vicinity.

Keim's hound, ranging through the field, started to bark when his leash became caught on a sapling, and in going to free the dog, Keim came across the grave from which the man's left hand protruded.

He summoned Constable Joseph Doran of Canandaigua, Townships, who, with deputies, removed the body and took it to the Fendler undertaking establishment.

The grave had been scooped out less than two feet, and the murdered man placed in it face up. Loose earth and rocks covered the body. The field in which it was buried is in a section infrequently visited, and the nearest house is about a half mile away.

There were no indications of a struggle at the scene, and no bullets or empty cartridges were found there, circumstances which indicated to Doran that Alberthal had been killed elsewhere. At least one of the wounds was powder burned from a bullet fired at close range.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—The step-daughter of Fred Alberthal, Miss Billie Tillery, said today he had left here about four months ago, and that she had not heard from him since then. Her mother, who was estranged from Alberthal, left Jefferson City later, she said, and has not communicated with her.

Alberthal lived here about 15 years. He formerly was employed in a garage, and once operated a small restaurant.

AIRPLANES DROP WEDDING PRESENTS FOR DUKE, FIANCEE

Flyers of British Royal Force Release Gifts, Attached to Parachutes.

By the Associated Press.

MONTS, France, June 1.—The wedding of Edward, Duke of Windsor, and American-born Wallis Warfield Simpson will take place Thursday at 11:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m. St. Louis time). Herman L. Rogers, American spokesman of former King Edward VIII, announced the time today.

He said the hour had been advanced in order to give ample time for the wedding breakfast.

Edward and Mrs. Simpson were bombarded from the air with wedding gifts today. The "bombers," British Royal Airforce planes, dropped the presents by parachute just before tea time. What the packages contained and who sent them were not known.

A $1300 consignment of flowers which will form a background for the wedding was received at the Chateau de Candie yesterday. The bride-to-be, assisted by a London decorator, planned the flower motif for the music room where the wedding will take place. The decorator arrived yesterday to remain until after the wedding.

The wedding ring, fashioned of Welsh gold by a Rue de la Paix jeweler, arrived during the day.

Cooks, gardeners and other chateau employees went ahead with plans for their own celebration of the ceremony. The first step was 32 haircuts. Next, the servants decorated their quarters for a wedding ball. They plan a dance in the garden pavilion tomorrow evening and hope Mrs. Simpson will look in a glass of wine. The head gardener expects to present the bride-to-be with a bouquet from the rose gardens and deliver a speech in behalf of employees.

Mayor Charles Mercier, who will perform the wedding ceremony, finished work on a speech he will deliver. He disclosed that plans for a double ring wedding have been canceled and the single ring service will be used.

SMOKER FATALLY BURNED

Alexander Capstick, 31-year-old roofer, died at City Hospital Sunday night when his clothing caught fire from a cigarette as he lay on a couch smoking in his home at 2515A Dodder street.

He was carried from the room by Emil Figi, 4716 Rosa avenue, who was passing by the house when the fire broke out. Figi's right hand was burned slightly.

ANOTHER HOUSE CLERK ITEM UNDER INQUIRY

Man of Same Name as 'Jelly-roll' Hogan's Aid Employed Steadily by Brewery.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—Payments made to Thomas King, listed on the House of Representatives payroll as clerk for State Representatives Edward J. Jellicroli, Hogan Jr. and Edward M. Brady of St. Louis, were under investigation today by Attorney-General Roy McKittick.

McKittick sent to Prosecuting Attorney Carl F. Wymore of Cole County an affidavit certifying that Thomas King of 1811 Allen avenue, St. Louis, had been in continuous employ of the Hyde Park Breweries Association, Inc., since December, 1933, and that he had worked at the plant five days a week since last Jan. 1, "subject to days off." The Legislature convened Jan. 6.

The affidavit was made at St. Louis Saturday by Joseph H. Stroger, 427 South Grand boulevard, St. Louis, assistant treasurer of the brewery company, which has its plant at 2110 Salisbury street.

Wymore said he had no evidence that the clerk and the brewery were the same individual, but that the Attorney-General's office was seeking an affidavit from the St. Louis man.

Wymore said he had an appointment today to confer with Miss Dorothy Schroer of St. Louis, concerning her affidavit that she had done no legislative work nor received any of the $475 in warrants issued in her name as clerk for State Representatives Edwin G. Forster and Michael R. Kennedy of St. Louis. Telegraphic requests to the two Representatives, sent last Friday by Wymore, had been unheeded, the prosecutor said.

Thomas King could not be reached at the Hyde Park Breweries Association, Inc., nor at his home, 1811 Allen avenue. Assistant Attorney-General Joseph A. Lendon, who is conducting the investigation in St. Louis, declined to discuss it.

MAN GETS 10 DAYS; ACCUSED OF DRIVING WHEN INTOXICATED

John Hoeffe, 25-year-old marble setter, 3764 Penrose street, was fined $200 and sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse by Police Judge Edward M. Ruddy today for careless driving and driving while intoxicated on Memorial Day.

Hoeffe was arrested yesterday after he had crashed into the rear of another car which had stopped for a stop sign at North Florissant avenue and Hebert street. He at first told the court that he had had "only a few beers" but after a policeman and the driver of the other car testified that they thought he was intoxicated he admitted that he had been drunk but thought he "was sober enough to drive."

Angelo Ceccon, a tile setter's helper, 3319 Bleischoff avenue, was fined $100 by Provisional Police Judge Ray W. Karst on a charge of driving while intoxicated. His driver's license was revoked for a year. Testimony was that Ceccon drove across the intersection of Twelfth boulevard and Chouteau avenue against a traffic signal early Sunday.

VETERANS' INSURANCE BILL VETO OVERRIDDEN

Both Houses Repass Rejected Measure Extending Renewal Date.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Congress today overrode President Roosevelt's veto of legislation to extend for five additional years veterans' war-time term insurance policies.

The Senate voted to override shortly after the House had acted. With a two-thirds vote required, the Senate vote was 59 to 13.

The 12 Senators who voted to support the President's veto were: Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, and the following Democrats: Adams of Colorado, Bailey of North Carolina, Bankhead of Alabama, Brown of New Hampshire, Guffey of Pennsylvania, Hughes of Delaware, Minton of Indiana, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Radcliffe of Maryland, Robinson of Arkansas and Schwartz of Wyoming. Senator King (Dem.), Utah, was paired against the bill.

Those voting to sustain the veto were Representatives Boland, Pennsylvania; Bulwinkle, North Carolina; Cox, Georgia; Ford, California; Lyndon Johnson, Texas; Kozlowski, Illinois; O'Connor, New York; O'Day, New York; Rayburn, Texas; Ryan, Minnesota; Sabath, Illinois, all Democrats, and Culin and Wadsworth, both Republicans of New York. After voting to sustain, Representative Knutson (Rep.), Minnesota, changed his vote to "present."

President Roosevelt in a veto message Friday, stated he did not believe the extension—which would be the fourth since the policies were issued during the war—was "warranted, or ultimately will prove profitable to the individuals concerned."

This was the first time Congress had voted to pass a bill over presidential objection since it overrode Roosevelt on the bonus bill a year ago.

Veterans' administration officials said that the term policies of about 2200 veterans expired yesterday and more than 17,000 would expire by July 1.

67 HELD AFTER 5 ARE KILLED IN STEEL STRIKE RIOT

Thirty-Four in Hospitals Following Fight Between Pickets and South Chicago Police.

SEVERAL WITNESSES HEARD AT INQUEST

Inquiry Then Is Adjourned Till June 15 — Contract, Not Talk, Wanted, Says CIO.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 1.—Sixty-seven men were held in police custody today while investigators sought to fix responsibility for the Memorial Day steel strike riot that caused the death of five persons and injury to more than 100 others.

Police Capt. Thomas Kilroy said the 67 participated in the fight between union men and sympathizers, and police near the Republic Steel Corporation's South Chicago plant. He said they will be charged with conspiracy to commit an illegal act, which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $2000 fine on conviction. Van A. Bittner, regional director of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, said after attending a five-hour conference called by Gov. Henry Horner: "This strike won't be settled until we get a contract. These conferences don't amount to a damn."

500 Shots Fired in Riot. The fighting occurred when police turned back a crowd of 1000 strikers and strike sympathizers who marched toward the mill following a mass meeting, in an attempt to close the plant which is being operated with 1400 loyal workers.

Witnesses estimated 500 shots were fired. The police, outnumbered five to one, also used tear gas, but the fight quickly became a hand-to-hand struggle in which bricks, stones and clubs were used.

Accounts of the actual start of the fight differed. Police said the strikers fired the first shots. The contract to which Bittner referred was the goal of the Committee in calling a strike against the Inland and Republic Steel Corporations and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. The proposed written agreement would permit the committee to act as collective bargaining agent for its members.

Union Insists on Pickets. Gov. Horner said Bittner had assured him strikers would be urged to refrain from action that might lead to a recurrence of rioting.

Bittner said police had agreed to allow an unlimited number of pickets about the plant and that he planned "to take our people to the picket lines" in the afternoon. The union's attempt to strengthen the picket line and possibly close the Republic plant, and the police's determination to prevent them led to a series of clashes, climaxed by Sunday's bloodshed.

Bittner said Republic's representatives at the Governor's conference declared they would refuse to sign a contract "even if a vote through the National Labor Relations Board showed we had a majority" of workers' votes. James L. Hyland, a Republic officer at the conference, declined to comment.

Another conferee, Robert Pilkington, Federal conciliator, will "look up several questions under the Wagner Act" and inform both sides when the conference will be resumed, Gov. Horner said.

Inquest Opened, Adjourned. An inquest into the riot victims' deaths was opened today. It was adjourned until June 15 after several witnesses were heard.

Bittner said the police and the company management were to blame and declared "if we can get the evidence, we are going to have those policemen indicted for murder in the first degree."

Police and Republic officials countered with assertions the unionists and sympathizers provoked the riot.

In a statement the joint executive board of four local unions of the Committee for Industrial Organization in the South Chicago district charged "company thugs" fired from the plant roof. It also contended the independent steel companies' refusal to sign contracts was part of "a conspiracy to destroy the union."

Tension Continues. Tension in the Calumet district of Illinois and Indiana persisted although Gov. Horner said opposing forces had pledged observance of the rules of "peaceful picketing." Thirty-four of the men in custody were under guard in hospitals where they were being treated for wounds. The others were in lockups.

Eight of the wounded were in serious condition. Twenty-five policemen fell wounded in the skirmish. Four of those killed were identified as Kenneth Reed, 23 years old, of Indiana Harbor, Ind., an electrical lineman, and Earl J. Handley, 37, a carpenter of the same city, both Inland Steel employees; Alfred Causey, 43, of Hammond, Ind., a carpenter for Republic, and Joseph Rothmund, 47, an unemployed baker.

children, testified at the inquest her husband was a Communist, a member of the International Workers' Alliance and never had been employed by a steel company. She said she had been told he was a member of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

TWO BELIEVED TO BE DROWNED WHEN WATER FLOODS MINE

Search for Bodies in Pennsylvania Delayed Until Pumping Is Completed.

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 1.—Water flooded the St. Vincent mine near St. Vincent College, east of Greensburg, yesterday and two workmen, the only ones in the shaft were believed to have drowned. They were John Lane, 55 years old, a pumper, and Barney Ransel, 60, a laborer.

The water broke through the walls by following a seam of coal from the nearby abandoned Dorothy mine. A foreman said he had just entered the cage to descend when he heard a sound like freight cars crashing together. Miners expressed the opinion the two "didn't have a chance." Search for their bodies will be delayed until the water can be pumped out. Ransel was married and the father of six children and Lane was married and the father of four children.

COAST GUARD SAVES 11 WHEN YACHT HITS JETTY

Rescues Party on Vessel Which Struck Near Ocean City, Md., When Steering Gear Breaks.

OCEAN CITY, Md., June 1.—Quick work by Coast Guardsmen from the Ocean City Station was credited yesterday with saving the lives of 11 aboard a yacht that was wrecked on a jetty near here.

Dr. Charles Law, owner, said "the tiller rope broke as we were heading into the inlet and we crashed into the north jetty, bursting the bottom of the boat. She was leaking so fast I ordered all to jump overboard, believing they could make it ashore as were were not far out." Dr. and Mrs. Law remained aboard with their 3½-year-old son.

Those who jumped were tossed against sharp rocks by the waves. The rocks are so slippery the swimmers could not grasp them, and only the arrival of the Coast Guard surfboat saved them. Capt. T. T. Moore, commander of the guard station, took five men in a motor-powered surfboat to the rescue. They picked up the swimmers and also took the Laws from their leaking boat. The Laws had been entertaining eight guests aboard their yacht.

HEINZ GRANTS TEN PER CENT WAGE RISE

Agreement With Employees' Association; Reopening of Strike-Closed Plant Delayed.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 1.—The H. J. Heinz Co. granted 10 per cent wage increases today to 2300 employees but delayed reopening its strike-closed North Side plant.

The increases were provided in an agreement with the Heinz Employees Association, which the company recognized as collective bargaining agent after receiving a petition from 1383 workers.

I. C. Bennett, association president, said the pact also provided one week vacation with pay at the end of one year of employment, adjustments of hours in certain classifications of work, and arbitration of future management-employee disputes.

Frank Kracik, head of the canner and pickle workers union, which called the strike a week ago, said the employees' association was a company union. Many of the names on the petition, he charged, were obtained through coercion.

The union, branch of the American Federation of Labor, claimed 1300 members. It has picketed the plant since the strike began.

NEW FIGHTING IN STEEL STRIKE AT OHIO PLANTS

Plane Delivering Food to Employees Fired on at Warren — Workers and Pickets Clash.

By the Associated Press. YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 1. — Tension grew in the Mahoning Valley today as Republic Steel Corporation frustrated with airplanes attempts of pickets to starve out loyal workers besieged in its plants. At Canton and Warren, O., where Republic continued partial operation of plants, there were outbreaks on the picket lines and an airplane delivering food to workers at the Warren plant was fired on. The plane was not damaged.

At least four men were injured—one at Canton and three at Warren. However, at Warren, pickets agreed to move across the street from the plant gates and set up their lines there.

At Canton, O., Carl Fane, 23 years old, suffered a skull injury early today when he apparently attempted to go through picket lines around Republic's alloy division, the only one of the concern's eight units operating there. Police records showed he was taken to a hospital from union headquarters. His condition was reported "fairly good."

Inquiry by Aviation Inspector. William Robinson, inspector for the Department of Commerce at Cleveland, said he was investigating reports of violations of department regulations in connection with the landing of planes and dropping of food at the Warren plant. Robinson said he would go to Warren today to investigate the situation.

John Mayo, sub-regional director of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, said he would meet here today with railroad brotherhood leaders in an attempt to obtain their co-operation in stopping rail shipments to and from the steel plants involved in the strike.

In Federal Court at Cleveland, the Baltimore & Ohio, Erie and Pennsylvania railroads asked for an order enjoining pickets from interfering with shipments at the Warren and Youngstown plants.

At Cleveland Edward Lamb, counsel for the CIO in Ohio, filed a suit on behalf of Robert W. Northrup, Toledo stockholder of Republic, to restrain the corporation from using company funds "for strike-breaking purposes."

The suit asked for recovery of about $1,000,000, alleged to have been spent for the purchase of tear gas, machine guns and other supplies.

Saying thousands of men were still working in its plants, Republic Steel issued a statement last night, saying, "We are not going to let them down." The company denounced the attempt to keep food from the workers as "a military invasion."

Workers and Pickets Clash. At Warren yesterday 300 loyal workers rushed from the mill and drove off 40 pickets. There "was fighting with clubs and iron bars and three men, including two pickets, were treated for head injuries."

Sheriff Ralph E. Elser in Youngstown admitted the seriousness of the situation in an order forbidding the sale or giving away of beer or liquor.

"In my honest opinion," the sheriff said in his proclamation, "we are faced with an emergency which threatens the life and property of our citizens."

In its statement assailing the picket blockade, Republic said it was still operating plants at Warren, Canton and Niles in Ohio, and at Chicago and Buffalo "because thousands of men in those plants want to continue at their jobs."

"We are not going to let them down now," the statement added, "simply because outsiders are seeking by force to close these plants and put these men off the payroll. Moreover we have large orders on the books and customers are demanding steel."

Republic said operations were at 40 per cent of capacity, and the Buffalo plant in May "actually broke all previous records in blast furnace and blooming mill production and equalled its former high record in open hearth steel production."

Support for Those Working. "Every principle of law and decency," the statement said, "demands that the thousands of men working today in our picketed plants be given full support in their determination to keep on working and get paid."

Neither the union nor the steel makers, Republic, Inland Steel Corporation, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, made any gestures toward settlement negotiations. The John L. Lewis union has demanded the steel makers sign a contract recognizing the union as bargaining agent for its members and the steel makers have refused, pleading it was unnecessary under the Wagner Disputes Act, and would lead to the closed shop. Of the three major independents, whose output is one-sixth of the nation's steelmaking capacity, only Republic has attempted to operate.

REGISTRATION BILL FOR ST. LOUIS PUT THROUGH SENATE

Twelve Amendments Are Adopted, but Major Defect of Not Requiring Signature Remains.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—The makeshift St. Louis permanent registration bill was passed by the Senate yesterday by a vote of 23 ayes and no negative votes, after adoption of 12 Senate amendments which made few remedial changes in the measure. The bill now goes back to the House, where it originated, for concurrence in the Senate amendments.

The St. Louis bill, resuscitated after being smothered for more than 10 weeks in a House committee only after Boss T. J. Fendergast of Kansas City decided some form of permanent registration bill should be passed for that city to still public clamor for election reform, has been rolling along like a traller in the wake of the machine propelling the Kansas City bill through the Legislature.
Step by step the St. Louis bill has followed the Kansas City measure. The Kansas City bill was passed by the Senate Friday after being called up out of its turn on the Senate calendar, and then was sent back to the House for concurrence in a Senate committee substitute, which was designed to quiet objections to the bill passed by the House.

Major Defect Stays in Bill.
While some changes were made in the St. Louis bill yesterday by amendment, it still contains the major defect of not requiring the signature of the voter. Most of the amendments adopted by the Senate were purely corrective as to the form of the bill.
One of the principal amendments was restoration to the bill of a provision that the Board of Election Commissioners, in selecting election judges and clerks, may choose persons either residing in a ward or who are employed or have a place of business in the ward, as authorized in the present law. As received from the House, the bill limited the choice to persons residing within a ward, which would have handicapped the board in selecting qualified election officials in the downtown wards in St. Louis.

The bill as passed also retains a provision, to which objection has been made, calling for destruction of the ballots cast in an election 12 months after the election unless a contest or a grand jury investigation has been instituted.
Amendment Clarifies Language.
One amendment clarifies language of the bill requiring re-registration of persons now on the rolls if the bill finally is passed and approved. Such voters then would be permanently registered if they continued to reside at the addresses from which registered, unless the registration was canceled for some cause provided in the act. The former language of the bill was considered ambiguous as to requiring re-registration of voters now on the rolls.

Another amendment adds to the information that applicants for registration must furnish, a requirement that the date of birth be given.
Still another change written into the bill, a provision of the present law, authorizes the Election Board, before completing its official canvass of the vote cast in an election, to make a recant of the vote in specified precincts if any voter or candidate for office presents an affidavit that fraud, misconduct or irregularities were committed in one or more precincts. The board would be authorized to conduct such a recount immediately in a public session, and the board's recount would supersede that of the election judges in the precincts affected.

BOB BURNS, RADIO COMEDIAN, MARRIES HIS SECRETARY

He Tries to Keep Ceremony Secret But Newspaper Man Recognizes Him.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., June 1.—Bob Burns, radio and screen performer, and his secretary, Miss Harriet Madeline Foster, were married here yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Albert C. Melton. Burns gave his age as 45 and his bride's as 28.
They arrived here aboard a regular Western Air Express plane under the names of Mr. and Mrs. Lastofgie, a name Burns said he "picked out of my mind." Burns had waited in a locker room at the Burbank (Cal.) airport until just before the plane departed, while his blond bride got aboard the ship.

"It kinda hurt my pride, after all the trouble I took, to think someone beat me," Burns remarked when he was recognized by a newspaper reporter at the airport here. The reporter, John F. Cahlan, arranged the details of the wedding, which was performed at the minister's residence, and acted as one of the witnesses. Burns' first wife, the former Elizabeth Fisher, died in Los Angeles Aug. 1 after an operation.

Accidentally Kills Wife.
HERRIN, Ill., June 1.—Sheriff Zollie Carter reported today Joe Tolotu, residing west of here, accidentally shot and killed his wife yesterday at his home. Carter said Tolotu told him the accident occurred while he was cleaning his shotgun.

VIVIANO MACARONI MFG. CO. IS ADJUDGED BANKRUPT

Court Refers Case to Referee With Directions to Liquidate Concern.

The Viviano Macaroni Manufacturing Co., 829 Wash street, was adjudged bankrupt by United States District Judge George A. Moore today. He referred the case to Referee in Bankruptcy John A. Hope with directions to liquidate the company. John F. Gillespie was appointed trustee.

The action was taken on application of the Insurance Agency Co., which has a claim of $914, and which declared that since the company filed a petition for reorganization under the amended bankruptcy act in January, 1936, it had failed to file a plan of reorganization, but had remained in possession of the property "to the detriment of creditors." At the time it filed the petition for reorganization the company listed assets at $80,371 and liabilities at the same figure.

300 PATIENTS TRANSFERRED TO NEW NEGRO HOSPITAL

Overcrowded Condition at City Hospital No. 2 Relieved by Removals.

Three hundred Negro patients who crowded City Hospital No. 2 were removed today to the new $3,000,000 Homer G. Phillips Hospital for Colored. The seriously ill in ambulances, the convalescent in busses, they were taken from the old institution at 2945 Lawton boulevard to the recently completed hospital built with city bond issue and P. W. A. funds at St. Ferdinand avenue and Whittier street.

Although there were no ceremonies, some formality was lent by the removal program which called for the presence of Mayor Dickmann, Director of Public Welfare Darst and Hospital Commissioner Ralph Thompson. About 30 patients at People's Hospital, 3449 Pine boulevard, and 75 at St. Mary's Infirmary, Fifteenth and Papin streets, for whom there was no room at the old hospital, also will be moved.

The new hospital, with a capacity of 600 beds, will be staffed by six resident physicians, six assistants, 30 internes and 70 nurses. All will be Negroes. The old hospital probably will be used as a station for emergency treatment.

TESTIMONY ENDS IN PLASTERING TRIAL

Court to Rule on Defense Motions Tomorrow; Final Arguments Will Follow.

The defense in the trial of five plastering contractors and four labor leaders, charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government on P. W. A. contracts, rested today after brief testimony by John P. Carroll, secretary of the John W. Rowan Plastering Co., the last of the defendants to make a categorical denial of the charges before a jury in United States District Judge George H. Moore's court. The Government rested at 11:10 a. m., after presenting brief rebuttal testimony, and Judge Moore dismissed the jury until 10 a. m. tomorrow, when he will deliver his instructions. Final argument will be made by defense and Government counsel. Motions for directed verdicts of acquittal and demurrers, previously considered and overruled by Judge Moore, were re-submitted without oral argument at the conclusion of the session. Judge Moore will announce his rulings on the motions when court reconvenes.

Carroll denied there had been collusion in fixing excessive prices for work on buildings paid for in part with P. W. A. funds through a "bid checking" committee of the Contracting Plasterers' Association. He asserted he had no part in the election of Harry Hagen, business agent for the lathers' union, or the choice of William Anderson as business agent of the plasterers' union, both defendants. They are alleged to have shared in the profits of contractors because they controlled the labor supply.

Similar denials had been made from the witness stand by Peter Anderson, Harry Niehaus, Frank B. Rowan and George F. Robertson Jr., other defendant contractors. Vincent Lee, business agent for the Contracting Plasterers' Association, his brother, Irving Lee, a member of the plasterers' union, and the two business agents, likewise had denied they had received "payoffs" from the contractors and other allegations of the indictment.

During more than three weeks of testimony, the jury heard about 75 witnesses and inspected 150 documents, relating principally to the contract for plastering the arena portion of the Municipal Auditorium, the south ward of Homer G. Phillips Hospital for Colored, the nurses' home there and the Pattonville School in St. Louis County.

BANKRUPTCY CONFERENCE URGES REVISION OF LAWS

Favors Chandler Bill to Eliminate "Loopholes, Traps and Inconsistencies."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 1.—The National Bankruptcy Conference asked the House Judiciary Committee today to revise the bankruptcy laws to eliminate "loopholes, traps and inconsistencies."

It recommended enactment of a bill introduced by Representative Chandler (Dem.) Tennessee and approved by President Roosevelt in a letter last week to Representative Sumners (Dem.) Texas, chairman of the committee.

Recommendations of the conference, an unofficial body made up of lawyers and others interested in debtor legislation, were laid before the committee by Dr. James A. McLaughlin, of the Harvard Law School faculty. President Roosevelt placed particular stress on a provision of the Chandler bill that would authorize the Securities and Exchange Commission to regulate and supervise corporate reorganization proceedings in the interest of investors.

KEYS SISTERS, QUADRUPLETS, GRADUATED FROM BAYLOR U.

Four Girls Win Bachelor's Degree; They Plan to Go On Stage.

WACO, Tex., June 1.—The Keys sisters, first quadruplets in history to complete college courses, received their Bachelor of Arts degrees yesterday.

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Flake Keys, Hollis, Ok., were the central figures in Baylor University's ninety-second annual commencement exercises.

"I am writing a new chapter in the annals of education," President Pat M. Neff said as he handed diplomas to Mary, Mona, Leota, and Roberta. He praised the sisters who entered the university four years ago known principally because they were quadruplets and remained each to distinguish herself individually.

The sisters planned to rest at home several weeks and then go on the stage.

BUS DRIVER KILLED, SEVEN PASSENGERS HURT, IN WRECK

One of Latter From St. Louis, Crash on Highway 61, Near Poplar Bluff.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., June 1.—A. L. Hines of Memphis, Tenn., driver of a Missouri Pacific bus, was killed, and seven passengers were hurt, four seriously, in a wreck on Highway 61, 18 miles south of here today.

The injured: Mrs. E. C. Johnson of Jonesboro, Ark.; Mrs. W. S. Walker of Jonesboro, Leslie Ingram, Mono, Ark.; Albert Robinson, Memphis, Tenn.; Tallie Sartin, St. Louis; Susie Hill, Negro, of Memphis, and Ed Love, Negro, of Parkin, Ark. The accident occurred at a curve in the highway. Apparently the driver lost control of the bus and it slipped off the shoulder of the highway and turned over in a deep ditch.

ADMINISTRATIVE CHANGES AT MCKENDREE COLLEGE

Dr. E. P. Baker Resigns as Dean; Dr. W. C. Walton Leaving Faculty.

The resignations of the Rev. Dr. E. P. Baker as dean of McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill., and the Rev. Dr. W. C. Walton, head of the department of philosophy and religion, were accepted by the board of trustees yesterday. Dr. Baker, a member of the faculty for 44 years, dean for 20 years and acting president two years, will continue as head of the German language and literature department. Dr. Walton has been on the faculty 42 years. He will continue as treasurer of the college and administrator of the student loan funds.

Three new positions were created. The Rev. Dr. Charles J. Stowell, head of the mathematics department for 17 years, was made dean of the College of Liberal Arts and will continue to teach. C. D. Hardy, on the faculty for the last year, was appointed dean of men, a function heretofore carried on by Dr. Baker, and head of the history department. Miss Ruth McDaniel of Nevada, Mo., was chosen head of the department of romance languages and dean of women.

The college, which is under auspices of the Methodist Church, added two members to its board—Judge Paul Farthing of Belleville, who today became Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Illinois, and the Rev. Earl U. Yates of Granite City.

JURY SELECTED TO HEAR 'POISONED PANCAKE' CASE

James Pace, 29, Accused of Killing Brother at Liverpool, Ill.

LEWISTOWN, Ill., June 1. — A jury was completed today in the opening session of the trial of James Pace, 29 years old, of Liverpool, charged with the "poisoned pancake" murder of his brother, William.
State's Attorney Sherman Deutch and Defense Counsel made their opening statements. Judge Riley E.
Stephens is hearing the case.
The indictment recites that William Pace died March 21 after eating poisoned pancakes at the home of Clarence Pace. James Pace was quoted at the inquest as saying he had intended to eat the poisoned cakes himself because of unrequited love for Mrs. Lillian Pace, 17, wife of Clarence.

AMELIA EARHART

IN SAN JUAN, P. R., ON WORLD FLIGHT

Covers 1000 Miles From Miami in 7 1-2 Hours on Second Attempt to Circle the Globe.

By the Associated Press.
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, June 1.
—Amelia Earhart landed at San Juan at 1:30 p. m. today on the first leg of her second attempt to fly around the world. Flying at a pace she called leisurely, she completed the 1033 miles from Miami in 7 hours 33 minutes.

She circled the city airport twice before landing. She seemed un-fatigued when she stepped from the cockpit and greeted friends.

At dawn tomorrow she plans to take off for Paramaribo, Venezuela, on the second leg of her tour.

MIAMI, Fla., June 1.—Amelia Earhart took off for San Juan, Puerto Rico, at 5:57 a. m. today.

Just before the takeoff, her husband, George Palmer Putnam, leaned into the cockpit of the big twin-motored plane to kiss her goodby and shake hands with her navigator, Capt. Fred Noonan, who is to accompany her on the 28,000-mile West-to-East journey.

The aviatrix, in plaid shirt and tan slacks, appeared confident and smiling. Putnam, after leaving her side, paced nervously back and forth along a balcony until her ship got off the field. With him were his son, David, and David's wife.

Putnam, who reported to remain in Miami until his wife reaches Natal, Brazil, her jumping-off place for Africa. The Pan-American Airways will monitor her flight over its regular route to South America and expects to have reports on her progress.

"Everything O. K."
Miss Earhart radioed at 6:40
"everything O. K." and that she was proceeding. Her position then was somewhere south of Miami but was not taken definitely.

Aboard the plane were emergency food provisions, a rubber lifeboat and lifebells. The tanks of the ship, a land plane, were equipped so they could be emptied quickly and would serve to keep it afloat.

The same plane crashed with her at Honolulu last March on her first globe-circling attempt when the landing gear collapsed under the weight of a heavy load of fuel.

From San Juan, Miss Earhart was to follow the Pan-American Airways route to Natal, from there to attempt a South Atlantic crossing to Dakar. In Africa, from Dakar she planned a direct flight to Aden on the Gulf of Persia, thence to Karachi, India, Port Darwin, Australia, and Lae, New Guinea. From New Guinea she mapped a course across the Pacific in three hops—to Howland Island, Honolulu and Oakland, Cal.

Reverses Order.
She said she reversed the order of her first attempt because weather conditions over the Caribbean and Africa probably were better now than they would be later, and she wanted to cover that part of the trip first.

On her first attempt Miss Earhart successfully flew the 2410 miles from Oakland to Honolulu, setting a new record for the crossing. It was on the takeoff from Honolulu that the landing gear gave way, causing considerable damage to the plane.

The repaired ship was delivered to her May 20 and she left Oakland next day, coming here by way of Tucson, Ariz., and New Orleans on what she described as a "shake-down flight." She spent all of last week supervising adjustments to the ship and made several test hops.

Text of President Roosevelt's Message on Income Tax Evasion

WASHINGTON, June 1. FOLLOWING is the text of President Roosevelt's message to Congress today on tax evasion:

"A condition has been developing during the past few months so serious to the nation that the Congress and the people are entitled to information about it. The Secretary of the Treasury has given me a report of a preliminary study of income tax returns for the calendar year 1936. This report reveals efforts at avoidance and evasion of tax liability so widespread and so amazing both in their boldness and their ingenuity that further action without delay seems imperative.

"We face a challenge of the power of the Government to collect, uniformly, fairly and without discrimination, taxes based on statutes adopted by the Congress. Mr. Justice Holmes said, 'Taxes are what we pay for civilized society.' Too many individuals, however, want the civilization at a discount.

"Many Methods of Evasion. Methods of escape or intended escape from tax liability are many. Some are instances of avoidance which appear to have the color of legality; others are on the borderline of legality; others are plainly contrary even to the letter of the law.

"All are alike in that they are definitely contrary to the spirit of the law. All are alike in that they represent a determined effort on the part of those who use them to dodge the payment of taxes which Congress based on ability to pay. All are alike in that failure to pay results in shifting of the tax load to the shoulders of others less able to pay, and in mulcting the Treasury of the Government's just due.

"I commend to your attention the following letter from the Secretary of the Treasury:

"The Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, May 29, 1937.

"My Dear Mr. President:

"As you know, the Treasury was surprised and disturbed by the failure of the receipts from the income tax on March 15 to measure up to the budget estimates. Therefore, we undertook an immediate investigation. Only a preliminary report can be made at this time, because the complete investigation covering all the income tax returns filed will require the balance of this year. Furthermore, since many of the returns of large manufacturing corporations have not yet been filed, the present report is confined almost wholly to data disclosed by the individual tax returns.

"But even this preliminary report discloses conditions so serious that immediate action is called for. More than the usual examination and audit by the Treasury is needed. It seems clear that if tax evasion and tax avoidance can be promptly stopped through legislation and regulations resulting from a special investigation a very large portion of the deficiency in revenues will be restored to the Treasury.

"Methods Enumerated. "I herewith enumerate some of the principal devices now being employed by taxpayers with large incomes for the purpose of defeating the income taxes which would normally be payable by them. As we continue our preliminary examination, other devices are being disclosed.

"1. The device of evading taxes by setting up foreign personal holding corporations in the Bahamas, Panama, Newfoundland, and other places where taxes are low and corporation laws lax.

"Americans have formed 64 such companies in the Bahamas alone in 1935 and 1936, and 22 more were organized by Americans in the Bahamas during the past two months. Panama and Newfoundland seem to be even more fertile territory since their corporation laws make it more difficult to ascertain who the actual stockholders are. Moreover, the stockholders have resorted to all manner of devices to prevent the acquisition of information regarding their companies. The companies are frequently organized through foreign lawyers, with dummy incorporators and dummy directors, so that the names of the real parties in interest do not appear.

"One American citizen with a $3,000,000 Bahamas Corporation has apparently attempted to prevent the Bureau of Internal Revenue from catching up with him by filing his individual tax returns in successive years from towns in New Brunswick, British Columbia and Jamaica. "Another individual believes that he has been so successful in removing his assets from the United States to the Bahamas that he is defying the Treasury to collect a tax upon a $250,000 fee he has received; and by way of insult, he has offered to compromise his admitted tax liability of $33,000 for past years by a payment of $17,000.

"Other Cases. "Still another individual showed a large net loss on his personal return for 1936. In considerable part, the loss was due to the large deduction he claims for interest on a loan made to him by his personal holding company. But the man in question is no object of charity, for his personal holding company, organized in Canada, had an income of over $1,500,000 from American dividends in 1936, though it has not yet filed a return.

"Perhaps the most flagrant case of this character is that of a retired American Army officer with a large income from valuable American securities which he desires to sell at a very large profit. To escape our income and inheritance tax laws, he used the device of becoming a naturalized Canadian citizen, and six days later organized four Bahamas corporations to hold his securities. He and his lawyers apparently think that he can now sell his securities free from any taxes on his profits, since there are no income taxes in the Bahamas, and that he has adroitly escaped American taxes.

"The Second Device.

"2. The device of foreign insurance companies. "Two New York insurance agents have caused the organization of insurance companies in the Bahamas with a view to enabling taxpayers to secure spurious deductions for interest through an ingenious scheme for the issuance of life insurance policies. Americans who went into the scheme purported to pay a large single premium for their policies, but immediately borrowed back practically the entire sum. Under the plan the so-called policyholders sought to obtain a large deduction for interest on this loan, although the fact was that no interest was really paid. By this means five prominent Americans sought to evade nearly $550,000 in income taxes in the years 1932 to 1936. This fraud was discovered by the Treasury's investigators and all of the taxpayers have now submitted offers to pay the full amount of taxes evaded, plus interest. Until our investigation is completed we do not know how many similar companies may have been organized in other countries, and utilized by our citizens; nor do we yet know whether this newly invented type of fraud has other ramifications.

"The Third Device.

"3. The device of domestic personal holding companies: "The rates of tax applicable to personal holding companies were reduced in 1936 at the time of the enactment of the undistributed profits tax. It was believed at that time that the combined rates of the two taxes would be sufficient to insure the distribution of the entire incomes of these companies, and the consequent imposition of surtax upon their owners. This expectation has not been realized.

"Thus, the single stockholder of one large personal holding company saved himself $322,000 by causing his company to distribute none of its income to him. "In another case, a man and his wife saved $791,000 through the use of personal holding companies in 1936.

"In a third case, the personal holding company reported over $500,000 of net income but the total taxes paid by the two stockholders, husband and wife, were less than $60,000, due principally to credits for payments on indebtedness the holding company prudently incurred in accumulating properties for its owners. If the personal holding company had not been in existence, the stockholders would have paid over $200,000 additional income taxes.

"Another favorite device is to organize a considerable number of personal holding companies, not only for the sake of reducing the tax, but of increasing the Treasury's difficulties in auditing transactions between companies. At last accounts one man had caused to be set up some 96 companies scattered all over the country. Two other individuals were utilizing 23 personal holding companies.

"The Fourth Device.

"4. The device of incorporation yachts and country estates. "Many wealthy taxpayers today are dodging the excess provisions of the law denying deductions for personal expenses by incorporating their yachts or their country estates, turning over to the yacht or to the estate securities yielding an income just sufficient to pay the entire expenses of operation. Hundreds of thousands of dollars in income taxes are annually avoided in this way.

"Thus, one man's yacht is owned by his personal holding company, along with $3,000,000 in securities. He rents the yacht from his company for a sum far less than the cost of upkeep, and the company uses its income from the securities to pay the wages of the captain and crew, the expenses of operating the yacht, and an annual depreciation allowance. None of these items would be deductible if this individual owned the yacht personally.

"A great many wealthy taxpayers are utilizing a similar arrangement for operation of their country places and town houses. "One man has placed his $5,000,000 city residence in such a corporation, and his racing stable whose losses last year were nearly $200,000. The tax savings he thus sought to obtain through the use of the holding company were $140,000.

"A wealthy woman has improved on the general plan of evasion by causing her personal holding company, which owns her country place, to employ her husband at a salary to manage it. She can thereby supply him with pocket money, and in effect claims a tax deduction for the expense of maintaining him.

"The Fifth Device.

"5. The device of artificial deductions for interest, losses, etc. "Taxpayers are seeking greatly to reduce their personal income taxes by claiming deductions for interest on loans to them by their personal holding companies, or on loans to them by their family trusts. These transactions normally have no business purpose, but are merely an artificial means of shifting income from one member of the family subject to high surtax rates to another member of the family subject to lower rates.

"Thus, one woman claims a large annual deduction for interest on a loan made to her by her husband as trustee of a trust which she created for her children. The mother thereby seeks to secure a deduction for her contribution to the children's support, and since the trust is revocable by her husband, the parents still have the desired control over the property and its income.

"In the same category are losses deducted by taxpayers who claim that their racing stables or hobby farms were operated for profit, even though a profit is never realized. Thus, a prominent manufacturer seeks a deduction of over $125,000 against his income from his business on account of his losses in operating a chicken farm.

"The Sixth Device.

"6. The device of the creation of multiple trusts for relatives and dependents. "Splitting income two ways, between husband and wife, reduces income taxes and leaves the family income intact. Splitting the family income many ways by means of many trusts, all for the same beneficiaries, may effect a much greater saving, while leaving the money actually in the same hands. For the creator of the trust often constitutes himself or his wife as trustee, and thus retains full control over the investment and disposition of the fund itself and of its income.

"One thrifty taxpayer has formed 64 trusts for the benefit of four members of his immediate family, and thereby claims to have saved them over $455,000 in one year in taxes.

"Another thrifty pair have constituted 40 trusts for their relatives, and a prominent lawyer and his wife utilize 16 trusts for the same purpose. The first pair maintains numbered brokerage accounts, and only at the end of the year are the beneficial owners identified. In this way innumerable transactions are carried on, often between accounts, which do not actually affect the beneficial interests of their owners, but which are designed solely to reduce tax liability.

"The Seventh Device.

"7. The device of husband and wife or father and children partnerships: "The purpose of these partnerships, like the multiple trusts, is to split the family income artificially into two parts; or, if the children are taken in, into still smaller fractions.

"There are many instances of this kind; but to illustrate the point, it is sufficient to cite the case of a New York brokerage firm which late in 1935 admitted into partnership the four minor children, two boys and two girls, of one of the partners. The tax saving he sought thereby in 1936 amounted to over $50,000.

"The Eighth Device.

"8. The device of pension trusts: "For 10 years the revenue acts have sought to encourage pension trusts for aged employees by providing corporations with a special deduction on account of contributions thereto, and exempting the trust itself from tax. Recently this exemption has been twisted into a means of tax avoidance by the creation of pension trusts which include as beneficiaries only small groups of officers and directors who are in the high income brackets. In this fashion high salaried officers seek to provide themselves with generous retiring allowances, while at the same time the corporation claims a deduction therefor, in the hope that the fund may accumulate income free from tax.

"Thus in one case $43,000 is annually appropriated by the corporation to a pension trust for the benefit of its two chief owners. One of the co-owners will retire at the age of 65 with a monthly pension of $175, and the other will retire at 60 with a monthly pension of $1425.

"Well-Defined Purpose. "These eight types of tax avoidance are sufficient to show that there is a well-defined purpose and practice on the part of some taxpayers to defeat the intent of Congress to tax incomes in accordance with ability to pay. In some cases the Bureau of Internal Revenue under existing law can establish a liability or indeed proceed on the ground of fraud; but many of these cases fall in the category of a legal though highly immoral avoidance of the intent of the law. It seems, therefore, that legislation should be passed at this session of the Congress in order to eliminate these loopholes which our preliminary investigation has proved; and that as a result of the further investigation this summer and autumn the next session of the Congress should finally close any further loopholes which may be discovered.

Three Other Instances.

"In addition to these cases of moral fraud, there are three other major instances in which the law itself permits individuals and corporations to avoid their equitable share of the tax burden.

"1. Percentage depletion— "This is perhaps the most glaring loophole in our present revenue law. Since 1928 large oil and mining corporations have been entitled to deduct from 5 to 27½ per cent of their gross income as an allowance for the depletion of their mines or wells, and the deduction may be taken even though the cost of the property has been completely recovered. Thus, in 1936, one mining company deducted nearly $3,000,000 under this provision, although it had already completely recovered the cost of its property. The amount of the deduction was a sheer gift from the United States to this taxpayer and its stockholders, and the revenue that we lost thereby was $315,000. Similar annual losses of revenue in the cases of a few other typical companies are $584,000; $557,000; $512,000; $272,000; $267,000; $202,000; and $152,000. The estimated annual loss of revenue due to this source alone is about $75,000,000. I recommended in 1933 that this provision be eliminated, but nothing was done at that time; and it has since remained unchanged.

is not new. The Congress devoted particular attention to it in 1933 and 1934, and by legislation effectively put a stop to many evasive devices discovered then as having been in use. The practice outlined above can and should be stopped in the same way.

"In conclusion, I have two observations to make from the evidence before me: In the first place, the instances I have given above are disclosed by a quick check of comparatively few individual returns. As I have said before, most of the large corporation returns have not yet been filed. The general audit of 1936 returns is just beginning. Nevertheless, it is likely that the cases I have digested above are symptomatic of a large number of others, which will be disclosed by the usual careful audit.

"In the second place, the ordinary salaried man and the small merchant does not resort to these or similar devices. The great bulk of our 5,500,000 returns are honestly made. Legalized avoidance or evasion by the so-called leaders of the business community is not only demoralizing to the revenues, it is demoralizing to those who practice it as well. It throws an additional burden of taxation upon the other members of the community who are less able to bear it, and who are already cheerfully bearing their fair share. The success of our revenue system depends equally upon fair administration by the Treasury, and upon completely honest returns by the taxpayer.

"The disclosures are so serious that I recommend that authority be given to the Treasury Department with an adequate appropriation in order that a complete and immediate investigation may be conducted. The cost of such an investigation will be returned many times over to the Treasury of the United States. Faithfully,
HENRY MORGENTHAU JR.
The President,
The White House."

"Feeling of indignation."

A feeling of indignation on reading this letter will, I am confident, be yours, as it was mine. What the facts set forth mean to me is that we have reached another major difficulty in the maintenance of two normal processes of our Government. We are trying harder than ever before to relieve suffering and want, to protect the weak, to curb avarice, to prevent booms and depressions—and to balance the budget. Taxation necessary to these ends is the foundation of sound governmental finance. When our legitimate revenues are attacked, the whole structure of our Government is attacked. "Clever little schemes" are not admirable when they undermine the foundation of society.

The three great branches of the Government have a joint concern in this situation. First, it is the duty of the Congress to remove new loopholes devised by attorneys for clients willing to take an unethical advantage of society and their own Government. Second, it is the duty of the executive branch of the Government to collect taxes, to investigate fully all questionable cases, to prosecute where wrong has been done, and to make recommendations for closing loopholes. Third, it is the duty of the courts to give full consideration to the intent of the Congress in passing tax laws and to give full consideration to all evidence which points to an objective of evasion on the part of the taxpayer.

Very definitely, the issue immediately before us is the single one relating to the evasion or unethical avoidance of existing laws. That should be kept clearly in mind by the Congress and the public. Already efforts to befog this issue appear. Already certain newspaper publishers are seeking to make it appear—first, that if an individual can devise unanticipated methods to avoid taxes which the Congress intended him to pay, he is doing nothing unpatriotic or unethical; and, second, that because certain individuals do not approve of high income tax brackets, or the undistributed earnings tax, or the capital gains tax, the first duty of the Congress should be the repeal or reduction of those taxes. In other words, not one but many red herrings are in preparation.

But it seems to me that the first duty of the Congress is to empower the Government to stop these evil practices, and that legislation to this end should not be confused with legislation to revise tax schedules. That is a wholly different subject. I have already suggested to the Congress that at this session there should be no new taxes and no changes of rates. And I have indicated to the Congress that the Treasury will be prepared by next November to present to the appropriate committees information on the basis of which the Congress may, if it chooses, undertake revisions of the tax structure.

Long-Term Problem.

The long-term problem of tax policy is wholly separate from the immediate problem of glaring evasion and avoidance of existing law.

In this immediate problem the decency of American morals is involved. The example of successful tax dodging by a minority of very rich individuals breeds efforts by other people to dodge other laws as well as tax laws. It is also a matter of deep regret to know that lawyers of high standing at the bar not only have advised and are advising their clients to utilize tax avoidance devices, but are actively using these devices in their own personal affairs. We hear too often from lawyers, as well as from their clients, the sentiment "it is all right to do it if you can get away with it."

I am confident that the Congress will wish to enact legislation at this session specifically and exclusively aimed at making the present tax structure evasion-proof.

I am confident also that the Congress will give to the Treasury all authority necessary to expand and complete the present preliminary investigation, including, of course, full authority to summon witnesses and compel their testimony. The ramifications and the geographical scope of a complete investigation make it necessary to utilize every power of Government which can contribute to the end desired.

TIP TO HOUSEWIVES ON HOW TO BE "APPRECIATED"

FOR ALL THE SILENT COMPLIMENTS I'VE BEEN GETTING—HAVE SOME HAY!

WHY H-H-H-HATTIE!

We hope desperate measures like serving hay* won't be necessary to win a little appreciation for all the home cooking and dish washing, or to "sell him" on the idea that you would appreciate a dinner out twice a week at the Forum too! And, does he realize that...

(With apologies to Dale Carnegie, whose book "How to Win Friends and Influence People" is well worth reading.)

IT ACTUALLY COSTS LESS
To Go Out For Dinner This Hot Weather
...To The AIR CONDITIONED FORUM!

This ad brings exciting news to wives and husbands too. Now that home-cooked meal costs have soared way up, it's actually more reasonable to go out for dinner to the cool, air-conditioned Forum!

And you just think you've been in a real air-conditioned restaurant. But wait till you try the Forum! It's just like a FREE vacation at the sea shore. And what a vacation!

No work and worry planning meals. No hot stuffy kitchen. And no dirty dishes to wash. You enjoy an evening of leisure, and you actually save money besides. Yes, many families find their Forum meals are so reasonable, they "celebrate" and go to a show.

So, you won't need to be "careful" and try to economize on what you take. Take chicken, chow mein, a real steak, or a delicious cold plate. You'll find your check is still mighty easy to take, because our most expensive meat items are our specials. How these specials hold your meal cost DOWN!

Why not bring "him" down this week? Show him how little your checks are, and how much it would cost to serve dinner at home. Then, "He" will say you're a clever wife to discover the Forum!

LINER TO RETURN BODY OF G. F. BAKER TO U. S.

Banker Died on His Yacht at Honolulu Saturday—His Career.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, June 1.—The flag flew at half mast today on the yacht Viking, where lay George F. Baker, internationally-known New York banker, who died Sunday from a heart attack induced by peritonitis.

The head of the First National Bank of New York was stricken Tuesday on his yacht several hundred miles from here. Despite an emergency operation, a hurried trip to Honolulu, and a blood transfusion Saturday night, Baker was unable to withstand the ravages of the infection.

The body will be taken to San Francisco Saturday on the liner, Lurline, by Mrs. Baker and two daughters. A private railroad car will take the body to New York.

The 59-year-old banker was stricken while on his first vacation since his marriage 30 years ago.

Baker's fortune had been estimated at from $150,000,000 to half a billion. In 1931 his father, George F. Baker Sr., died and left his son at the head of the financial institution.

He held directorates in many corporations but resigned them in 1936 without explanation. It was reported he was in poor health then.

Widow, Four Children Survive. In addition to the widow and daughters, Florence T. and Edith B., two sons, George F. and Grenville K. Baker, survive.

The body remained in the owner's stateroom aboard the yacht at the request of Mrs. Baker. Known as the "sphinx of Wall Street," Baker began his career as a financial wizard at the age of 21 when his father gave him $1,000,000 "without strings."

After a year's apprenticeship as a clerk in the House of Morgan, he entered his father's bank, and gradually he assumed the responsibility of controlling the millions pyramided by his father during his time as head of Manhattan's First National Bank.

He never talked about himself or his business. As he explained, once:

"There is rarely a reason good enough for anybody to talk. Silence uses up less energy. It is the secret of my success."

Stabilization Fund in Crash. He scoffed at the idea of a biography of himself, declaring his whole life story could be written on half a sheet of foolscap. But behind this modesty lay a long record of far-reaching operations in the field of national and international finance.

Thus, characteristically, he leaped into action on the "Black Thursday" in October, 1929, when the stock market crash and panic gripped the nation. With half a dozen other financial leaders, Baker mobilized a stabilization fund of $250,000,000 to check the avalanche of selling.

The operation not only had a salutary effect on the market and on the nerves of countless investors terror-stricken by the collapse of "gilt-edged" securities, but it was also successful from the standpoint of the bankers themselves. They needed only about $100,000,000 of their reserve fund, and they were able to liquidate all emergency stock purchases without loss inside of four months.

Despite his background of wealth, Baker as a young man was far from a rich man's spoiled scion. At Harvard, his classmates knew him as a hard-hitting boxer, afraid of nothing. He was graduated in 1901.

Enlisted as Private in War. When the war broke out, Baker was 40. He was a commodore of the New York Yacht Club and an outstanding social figure. But he sought no "cushy" berth. Instead, he enlisted as a private in the artillery corps at $30 a month—probably the richest private in any army.

Little known outside financial circles, he was a powerful force in controlling the destinies of nearly a dozen giant corporations, as well as active head of his own "Baker's Bank" in Wall Street.

Among others, he was a director of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., General Electric, United States Steel, General Motors, Pullman, New Jersey General Security, New York Central Railroad and the Consolidated Gas Co. of New York, and trustee of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. and the United States Trust Co.

His only extra-business interest lay in yachting aboard the palatial 272-foot craft, Viking, on which he was cruising in the South Pacific when stricken on May 26.

In 1911, he married Edith Brevoort Kane, a noted beauty and athlete. His gifts to charity reputedly averaged $2,000,000 annually over the past 15 years.

BODY OF UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND IN MISSISSIPPI RIVER

About 65 Years Old; Had Heavy Bag Tied Around His Right Wrist.

The body of an unidentified man, about 65 years old, was taken from the Mississippi River at the foot of Meramec street yesterday by three men who observed it in the water as they were riding in a motorboat.

When they brought the body to shore, the men told police, a cloth bag which appeared to contain a heavy material became disengaged from the right wrist, to which it had been tied, and sank. The man was 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighed about 160 pounds and had gray hair. He wore two pairs of dark trousers, black shoes, a blue shirt and a gray sweater. The body was taken to the City morgue.

ST. LOUIS POST

DIETRICH Braddock

ROESCH MAKES TITLE - HOLDER LOOK BAD IN A 2-ROUND MATCH

Champion, Now at 198 Pounds, Expects to Weigh 194 for His June 22 Fight With Joe Louis.

By John E. Wray.

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

GRAND BEACH, Mich., June 1.

It, as so often reiterated, "a fighter is as good as his legs." Champion James J. Braddock will have to be considered as good as he ever was—perhaps better. More than 700 holiday visitors to the Braddock camp here who saw the champion step through his workout agreed that not only were Jim's prep the handsomest and most useful looking of all the legs in action there, but also that if physical condition is to play an important part in the Braddock-Joe Louis title fight at Comiskey Park, Chicago, three weeks from tonight, nobody need worry about Braddock.

In boxing six rounds with his really high-grade sparring partners, Braddock satisfied observers that he is not suffering from his 32 years. His sparring mates neither pulled punches nor adjusted their speed to suit Braddock. They tore into him and threw gloves hard. They landed, too, and on vital spots, although Jim wore protective headgear and a wide bandage around his waist line, inside his jersey, for protection of his floating ribs.

Yet, at the close, Braddock was not breathing hard. He perspired freely, even to his legs. Although a bigger man than formerly (his manager says despite his age that he has grown an inch in height in the last two years) he very plainly is carrying only five or six pounds of excess weight.

Will Fight at 194 Pounds.

Braddock weighs 198 at this time and will fight at 194, his manager, Joe Gould, says. He is ideally built for a heavyweight with good upper arms and shoulders, a big forearm and wrist such as nearly all good punchers have, and strong thighs and lower legs. His ears have not been mugged up much during his long career and, although some of his teeth are missing, this is not visible to the extent of marring his pleasant expression when he smiles.

Braddock's workout consisted of one round of boxing with Henry Cooper of Buffalo; two with Max Baer of Dallas; one with Charley Massera, a high-grade heavyweight and the ranking sparring mate of the camp, followed by two rounds with an iron-jawed husky named Jack McCarthy of Boston.

The first pair were fast and tore into Braddock. He had all he could do to keep them off. In fact, he was outboxed by young Roesch during their two rounds of battling. This 20-year-old youngster has something on the ball. He hit fast, hard and often. He moved rapidly around, and afforded Braddock a hard workout.

Also, he shook up Jim with blows that might be lethal if landed by Joe Louis. You can get some idea of the speed of the workout from the fact that Roesch went into the fray weighing 192 pounds and scaled only 187½ when he emerged—a loss of 4½ pounds.

Champion Gives and Takes.

Massera and McCarthy were shifty and hard to reach and Braddock pursued them, giving and also taking blows. It was Roesch, however, who made Braddock appear rather slow and easy to hit on both head and body. He hit so fast that he beat Braddock to the punch and, when Jim tried to turn on the heat, very often there was no Maxie there. Jim missed several well meant rights.

To this observer, it appeared that Braddock was rather slow, although he is never a fast worker. To this suggestion Manager Joe Gould replied: "Jim is not working for fancy effects. He's doing his own training and I let him alone. He knows how to condition himself better than I can tell him. He got himself ready for Baer and he did a good job then. He's a good worker but not flashy."

"Jim ain't no grandstander," whispered Gould during the McCarthy bout, when the champion was taking something of a beating. "He don't go round knocking his

Time for winning car, 4 hours 24 minutes 7.81 seconds. Time for second car, 4 hours 24 minutes 9.97 seconds.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 1.—Checks totalling more than $30,000 were held today for Wilbur Shaw, young Hoosier who captured his first and gasoline supply and won a 500-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway race after seven attempts.

Shaw, along with other drivers in yesterday's race—the fastest, the closest and the hottest in history—will attend the annual dinner for pilots tonight to get the money he and they won.

For Shaw there will be a $30,000 check for winning the race. He will get other, amounting to $5500, for lap prize money, and a flock of others will be awarded by automobile accessory and gasoline companies.

Shaw, a native of Indianapolis, roared to victory in a car he designed, built and owns shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with Ralph Hepburn, the Los Angeles veteran, only two seconds behind him. Hepburn came just close to putting an end to the old speedway idea that a car never wins two races. He was driving the same job that Louis Meyer drove to victory last year.

The speed of 113.58 miles an hour was the fastest ever made in a 500-mile race. In fact, the first four finishers all broke the previous speed record of 108.08 miles an hour set last year by Meyer.

The last 90 miles of the race were as thrilling as anyone of the 170,000 spectators could want to see. At 409 miles Shaw seized the lead from Bob Swanson of Los Angeles who had been driving for Hepburn. Ralph got back in his own car and took out after the fast flying Indianapolis boy.

At that time he was more than two and one-half laps back but he knew he was going to win.

With Shaw, it was a question of whether the gas supply and tires would last. Gradually Hepburn pulled up. When Shaw went in his next-to-last lap he was 28 seconds ahead of Hepburn. At the start of the last lap he was only 14 seconds out in front and at the finish he was slightly more than two seconds to the good.

Meyer Takes Fourth Place.

Ted Horn of Los Angeles who won second last year was the third place winner. Meyer wound up in front place after a masterful bit of driving in the latter stages of the race. Cliff Bergere of Hollywood, Cal., was fifth; Fred Frame of Los Angeles, driving relief for Bill Cummings of Indianapolis, was sixth; Billy DeVore of Kansas City was seventh; Tony Gulletta of Kansas City was eighth; George Connor of San Bernardino, Cal., was ninth and Louis Tomel of Portland, Ore., was tenth.

This Slide Helped Beat Carl Hubbell

Cardinals Won Only Five, Lost Nine Games at Home

out of the lineup for a week or 10 days.

Batters Have Been Silenced.

You don't have to look far to determine the trouble with the club. The hitting has been woefully weak lately. In the 14 games at Sportsman's Park just concluded the Cardinals have made 114 hits in 461 times at bat for an average of .247. They have scored 58 runs to 71 for the opposition.

So, while the pitching has not been at all satisfactory, the batters will have to come in for their share of the blame, too.

Warneke, Dizzy Dean, Silas Johnson, Kyba and Weiland were credited with the victories at home, while Dizzy was charged with three defeats; Harrell with a like number. Warneke, Silas Johnson and Winford were on the losing end of the other three.

The Cubs scored one run in each of four innings to win from Warneke who was found for eight hits during the eight innings he toiled. Johnson pitched the last inning without any trouble.

Marty started it in the second inning when he doubled after two were out and scored on Jurgens' single.

Then in the next inning, Galan opened with a double and went to bat, Owen tried to throw the ball back to Warneke after a pitch, but his arm struck Collins' head. The ball bounced high into the air over Warneke's head to second base and Galan scored.

Some Fine Pitching.

In the fifth, Jurgens singled and Lee sacrificed him to second. Galan doubled Jurgens home. Then Warneke did some of his best pitching because Herman singled to put Galan on third and Collins was purposely passed to fill the bases.

Warneke got the hard-hitting Demaree on a pop to Mize and Hack on a foul to Gutteridge.

In the eighth, Demaree got a measure of revenge for he drove the ball into the left field seats for a home run.

Meanwhile Lee was turning the Cardinals back with little trouble. He yielded only one hit in five innings and the Redbirds were unable to score until the sixth, when Gutteridge hit a home run into the left field bleachers.

In the eighth, two dinky little hits threatened Lee with disaster for after two pinch hitters had gone out harmlessly, Terry Moore beat out a tap down the third base line and Stuart Martin bounced a single off Lee's glove but Gutteridge forced Stuart Martin.

Then in the ninth came a real flurry. Medwick walked and Bordagaray ran for him. Frenchy went to third on Mize's single to right. Pepper Martin drove deep to Marty and Bordagaray scored. Durocher also flied to Marty and Don Padgett, batting for Ogorodovsk, singled. Frisch batted for Johnson. Frank sent a harmless pop over Herman's head, but Billy lost it momentarily in the sun. He recovered in time to make the catch, however.

Changes Batting Order.

Frisch changed the Redbird lineup in the second contest, sending Padgett to center field and batting sixth with Gutteridge leading off and Pepper Martin batting third.

A walk to Galan, his stolen base and Herman's double gave the Cubs a run in the first.

Gutteridge walked to start the Cardinals' half and Stuart Martin up and was out, Herman to O'Dea to Hack to Bryant. It was during this play that Gutteridge was spiked and had to be carried off the field. Pepper Martin had reached second before Gutteridge was tagged out but he remained there as Medwick flied to Galan.

Dizzy Dean himself started the rally in the third which put the Cardinals out in front briefly, the only time all day they were in that happy position. Dizzy opened with a grounder which hopped over Padgett's head for a single. He went to second on a wild pitch. Brown, who had replaced Gutteridge at third, flied to Galan. Stuart Martin bounced to Jurgens and Dizzy beat the throw to third. Pepper Martin lined a triple to right-center. Olin Dutra, and 32 others, the 31 low scorers of last year and Al Watrous, Oakland Hills pro, are automatically eligible for the championship proper.

One of qualifying points to draw attention was Huntington, W. Va., where Sam Snead, outstanding newcomer to top-flight pro circles and a Ryder Cup candidate, was one of 27 golfers battling for three trips to Oakland Hills.

Eddie Held in St. Louis.

Other prominent players in today's arduous eliminations were Lawson Little, former United States and British amateur champion; Craig Wood, Jimmy Hines, Ed Dudley and Byron Nelson, Ryder Cup candidates; Reynolds Smith and Charley Yates, members of last year's Walker Cup team; Frank Starfall and Eddie Held, former United States public links champions, and Jess Seiber, United States and British amateur titleholder.

Wood, Hines and Starfall played in the "Met" district, Dudley and Nelson at Philadelphia, Smith at Fort Worth, Tex., Yates at Atlanta, Ga., Held at St. Louis, and Little at Chicago.

The biggest field was scheduled for play over two courses near Detroit, Oakland Hills and the Plum where 111 amateurs and 88 pros were vying for 16 places.

Danish Girl Set Record.

Ragnhild Hveger, Danish girl, swam the 200-meter distance in 2:41.3, bettering the mark of 2:48 made by Nida Seiff, which was better than Eleanor Holm's old mark of 2:48.7.

Fans Throw Cushions on Field.

At the conclusion of the final contest, fans in the grandstand, either in disgust at the double loss or from a peculiar idea of fun began to throw seat cushions onto the field. In a moment the air was filled with them, blue and white ones sailing into the crowd filling the aisles or crossing the field.

At the exits in the corners of the field those on the ground began to throw them back in what turned into something like a pillow fight. It was funny, in a way, but those cushions are made of a waterproof material filled with felt and goat hair and enclosed in a canvas covering. They probably weigh more than a pound and no doubt anyone struck with one tossed from the upper deck of the stand could hardly appreciate the humor of it.

An appeal over the loud speaker to desist was greeted with boos and another shower.

Blake Harper, in charge of the concessions, said he had heard of no complaints of any injury but several persons were seen to have been struck.

Galan was a power on defense in the second game for the Cubs. He roomed all over the field picking drives off the wall and most of his six putouts were difficult.

The crowd brought the paid attendance for the Cardinals' 14 games at home to more than 122,000.

Three games will be played in Brooklyn followed by three at Philadelphia, three at New York and three at Boston. The Redbirds return home to face Philadelphia, June 15.

Extra Base Hits Off Dizzy.

Six of the Cubs' 15 hits off Dizzy were for extra bases. Herman had a field day getting two doubles and two singles in five times up. Demaree, O'Dea and Collins had two-baggers and Galan a home run.

Bryant had good control and issued only one base on balls. The last time he pitched against the Redbirds he passed nine of them.

The defeat was Dizzy's second in three days and his fourth in his last five starts. He has won six and lost four for the season.

The Cubs have won their last six games in succession.

CLASSIC

Golfer Has 59 On 6200-Yard, Par 70 Course

By the Associated Press. WEST ORANGE, N. J., June 1.—Alex Watson failed to qualify today for the national open golf championship, but the graying Scot's almost unbelievable practice round yesterday, made that of no importance.

Watson, in his mid-forties, put himself into the record books today, when he shot a startling 59 over the Hudson River course at Yonkers. Par for the 6200-yard-long layout is 70.

In his brilliant display, Watson scored nine birdies, one eagle and eight pars. Four of his birdies were deuces and holes-in-one. His card and par:

Par out — 444 354 434 — 35
Watson out — 443 254 423 — 31
Par in — 445 344 443 — 31
Watson in — 333 243 442 — 30

Watson took a 77, or six over par, for his morning round in the New York Metropolitan area's qualifying test at the Essex Country Club today.

MICKEY COCHRANE'S CONDITION UNCHANGED

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 1.—Mickey Cochrane's condition was unchanged today. The Detroit catcher and manager who is at a hospital here with a fractured skull received in a game with the Yankees last week, was considered much improved by doctors, yesterday, and spent a quiet night.

Two hours.

"I went around to see him and he was still out. I twisted his ear and he opened his eyes. He looked at me, recognized me and says: 'It's a good thing for you that I'm here—I was just about to finish you when the roof fell on me.'"

The kid laughed at the recollection.

It's good the kid can laugh for his life journey has been rough. Many years of it were spent in a California prison for killing a woman.

By the Associated Press. EPOSON DOWNS, England, June 1.—Crowds swarmed again onto Epsom Downs rolling acres today for the opening of the spring meeting, which will be climaxed by tomorrow's renewal of the $50,000 "Derby," the world's most trying and treacherous horse race.

Picking tomorrow's victorious three-year-olds was one of the toughest jobs in the 157-year history of the classic. There wasn't a standstill out among the 21 probable starters, there is not been a really confident prediction of victory by any owner, trainer or jockey and there appeared to be at least six "probable" winners.

Long Astor's Cash Book remained the new 7-1 favorite at the final Victoria Club call over, to night. Reginald, trainer of Perfor, said the Associated Press the son of Gallant Fox was ready, "but we could use a little rain."

Although the Epsom course has a thick blanket of grass, it is hard as a board underneath, due to rain and weather in the last 10 days. The boyman of the Derby as usual was the Aga Khan, whose Mahmoud and Bahram won the last two Derbies. This time the fabulously rich Indian religious leader has Le Grand Duc, strangely enough, the only horse in the race seriously fond of hard going.

As the Maharajah Rajpipla's Windsor Lad won three years ago, Indian owners have pocketed first prize for three straight years.

The last American-owned winner was Herman Duray's Duc II in 1914. Other United States entries which won Britain's greatest race were Richard Croker's Orby in 1907 and Pierre Lorillard's Iroquois in 1881.

AUTO RACE DRIVER TRAPPED IN FLAMING CAR, SUFFERS BURNS

By the Associated Press. HATFIELD, Pa., June 1.—Trapped in his flaming racing car, Preston Norcross, 27 years old, of Princeton, N. J., was burned critically in the Montgomery County Fairgrounds track.

Rescuers worked 20 minutes yesterday with chisels and acetylene torches to free the unconscious driver, while firemen poured water on the wrecked machine.

Daniel Goff, 40, of Bridgeton, N. J., and Howard Reimer, 24, of Norcross, leaped from their automobiles. They saw they were unable to avoid a crash with Norcross' car.

DISTRICT JUNIOR DAVIS CUP TRIALS TO BE THIS WEEK-END

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, June 1.—Joe Tye of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, said today preliminary trials in this district for the Junior Davis Cup quad would be held here next Saturday and Sunday.

Players from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Iowa are expected to compete, Ivy said. The quad will be coached by Carl Meyer of St. Joseph, Mo.

CONFUSION WORSE CONFOUNDED

TO get the players straightened out is sometimes pretty hard; They have one number for their backs Another for the card.

With 27 on his back He strolls up to the plate Then glancing at the card, alack! We find he's No. 8.

In fact, 't would take a Solomon To figure who is who We find that No. 21 Is really No. 2.

Although the adage hounds declare That figures do not lie, It seems that in the whole affair There's more than meets the eye.

Spot Light! If the presidents of the two major leagues want to confer a boon on suffering humanity they should pass a rule limiting presentation speeches to one minute.

Inasmuch as the customers who lay it on the line cannot hear a word that is being said and wouldn't want to if they could, why take up their time with useless oratory?

Both the Davis (Dwight F.) Cup tennis and the Walker (G. Herbert) Cup golf were donated by St. Louisans. When better cups are donated St. Louis will attend to it.

Bucky Jacobs, University of Richmond, has pitched three no-hit games in five weeks. Bucky is making Richmond as hard to take

FOUL RULE NOT TO BE ENFORCED AT LEWIS-OLIN TITLE CONTEST

John Henry Lewis, light-heavyweight champion of the world, and the challenger for his title, Bob Olin, who meet at the Arena Thursday night, prepared today for their last strenuous workouts before the battle.

Pronounced fit physically and both under the weight limit for the class of 175 pounds, the two will go through their final drills today then rest tomorrow, doing just enough to keep limbered up and at the proper weight.

The two boxers went through the preliminary examination yesterday at a meeting of the Missouri Athletic Commission at Hotel Statler. Dr. Ed Mayes, examining physician for the commission, looked the men over and said while Lewis was in great condition, as always, he was really surprised at the improvement in Olin over the champion who lost his title here in 1935.

Olin weighed 174½ pounds and Lewis an even 174 pounds. Garrett Smalley, chairman, presided over the meeting and stated the names of the judges would not be divulged until just before the start of the bout. Walter Heiser has been selected as the referee.

Smalley also said that the foul rule would not be enforced except in case of an exceptionally flagrant violation.

Young U. S. Players Given Even Chance To Win Davis Cup

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 1.—It may be optimism, or patriotism or a combination of both, but the impression prevails in tennis circles today, following America's 5-0 rout of the Australian Davis cuppers at Forest Hills, that Uncle Samuel's young racket swingers have at least an even chance to recapture the famous tennis trophy at Wimbledon in July.

They may need a few more "breaks," such as they got through the epidemic of ailments that extracted the threat from Australia's attack, but the combination of red-headed Don Budge, mighty little Bryan (Betsy) Grant, and husky Gene Mako, Budge's doubles partner, looks like this country's most formidable challenge in at least five years.

Budge, in his third Davis Cup campaign at the age of 22, is the spearhead of the drive, but from the way Grant performed in his first two "big time" tests, it appears the great red-head will have unexpectedly strong support.

Selected to play in the zone finals for the first time, Grant proved to be 125 pounds of dynamite. Renowned for years as a "giant killer," the tiny Georgian came through magnificently. Yesterday, by scores of 6-0, 6-2, 7-5, Grant whipped the great Jack Crawford just as decisively as his teammate did two days previously.

Dropped Only One Set. Meantime Budge disposed of 18-year-old Jack Bromwich 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1, lapsing only one long enough to drop the lone set yielded by the home team during the entire series.

The Australian singles ace, who didn't even step on the courts, wound up in the hospital. Put out of action by intestinal "flu," Quiet developed jaundice over the weekend and was removed to a hospital for observation. He expects, however, to leave with his teammates Wednesday for Europe.

This year's scramble to end England's four-year Davis Cup reign, prompted by Britain's loss of the great Fred Perry, now a pro, points toward a climax into-zone battle between the United States and Germany's powerful combination of Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Heinrich Henkel.

The Teutons are odds-on choices to top the European zone later this month and thereby qualify to meet the United States in mid-July, with the consensus that the survivor will "take" England without much trouble.

Any tendency by the Americans to become over-confident should be dissipated by latest returns from abroad. Henkel's straight-set conquest of Henry (Bunny) Austin, England's lone ace, in the final of the French singles followed a doubles triumph in the same tournament for Henkel and Von Cramm.

Sabin to Make Trip. Part of America's confidence is based upon the fact that Budge on his first trip abroad with the cup team in 1935, beat Von Cramm in the interzone matches. Last year Grant beat Henkel at Wimbledon.

Joining Budge, Mako and Grant, for the trip abroad, will be Wayne Sabin, promising young Hollywood, Cal. player. It was indicated Sabin would replace Frankie Parker.

The summary of United States-Australian matches follows: Singles—Bryan M. Grant Jr., defeated Jack Bromwich, 6-2, 7-5, 6-1, and Jack Crawford, 6-0, 6-2, 7-5; Don Budge defeated Crawford, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2, and Bromwich, 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1; Budge and Gene Mako defeated Crawford and Vivian McGrath, 7-6, 6-1, 6-3.

EUROPEAN AMATEUR BOXERS APPEAR AT KANSAS CITY TONIGHT

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 1.—Europe's amateur boxing champions will make the second of their two scheduled business stops in this country tonight, meeting Kansas City's Golden Glove champions in an eight-bout program here.

The Europeans, winners in an international tournament, recently competed against Chicago's Golden Gloves champions, gaining a draw. Italy is represented by three men on the invading team, Germany by three, and Poland by two.

Are you sure HABIT isn't robbing you?

When did you last check up on your cigar? Are you certain some other cigar isn't milder—smoother—more enjoyable in flavor?

Here's the way to find out. Stop buying the same cigar through mere force of HABIT—and try PHILLIES. It's the cigar most men smoke.

We can't guarantee you'll like PHILLIES better than your present cigar. But we can guarantee you'll find no bitter, bitey taste in PHILLIES—and every one will be mild and smooth from end to end.

Podolak and Singh in Mat Bout Tonight

Nanjo Singh, Hindu from India, and Walter Podolak of Poland will meet in the feature finish match on Bill Schwabe's wrestling card tonight at the Coliseum. The first of three supporting matches will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Podolak took on the two Zaharias in his bouts in St. Louis. He downed Chris Zaharias in less than three minutes but found George, the Glowering Greek, a tough lumbe, and lost the verdict in about 20 minutes.

Singh scored two victories here, winning over Stefano Neneoff, a Bulgarian, in his last local start.

In the secondary finish match, Eddie Newman, New York, will grapple with Gene Bowman, Tennessee. Newman has been disqualified for using rough tactics in many of his bouts in St. Louis, while Bowman drew with Whitey Brexler and lost to Warren Bockwinkel in his pair of matches in the Mound City.

Brexler, champion of the St. Louis fire department, will face Beppo Vitale, Italian 200-pounder, and Eddie Theriault, French-Canadian from Joplin, Mo., will meet Ernie Klein, of Germany, in the prelims.

WHY PHILLIES ARE FREE OF BITTER, BITEY, RASPY TASTE

Bayuk selects and buys for PHILLIES the finest and mildest types of Havana, Domestic and Sumatra tobaccos. They are the very pick of the crops:

All PHILLIES tobaccos are aged and mellowed for at least two years—and are cured by the same methods used in making the most expensive cigars. : : BUT BAYUK DOESN'T STOP HERE.

Bayuk owns an exclusive, patented process that removes the bitter oils and harsh elements that ordinary curing methods don't, and can't, get out. No other cigar manufacturer can use this process.

Try Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads—the famous triple-action treatment—the only method that does all these things for you: (1) Instantly relieves pain; (2) Quickly, safely removes corns or callouses; (3) Stops corns before they can develop. Just the simple application of these thin, soothing, healing, softly cushioning Zino-pads where you need them.

Wherever you drive...

It's the Costliest kind of driving you do!

How far can you drive without making a stop? One block? Two blocks? How far?

If you're an average motorist, you put on your brakes and come to a halt thirty times a day!

And every time you start up, you can use enough gasoline to take you a third of a mile! That means you can waste enough every day to drive your car ten miles.

To reduce the waste of stop-and-go driving, Shell engineers developed a way to "balance" gasoline.

This unique balancing process rearranges the entire chemical structure of gasoline . . . makes Super-Shell "digestible" for your motor, just as cooking will make some foods digestible for you.

When you're starting, shifting, accelerating . . . at all times, your motor gets the full benefit of Super-Shell's high energy content.

And you get the savings!
The next time you need gasoline, try Super-Shell. It's on sale at the Shell dealer in your neighborhood.

Time to Talk of Low Humidity

By ROSCOE NUNN
of the United States Weather Bureau

When Lowell wrote about the perfection of June days he was doubtless thinking of the New England type, but St. Louis also has some of those rare June days. In the last 64 years the temperature has reached 90 degrees or higher on June 10 only 16 times, and on the twentieth only 25 times. June 10 shows only three occurrences of 95 degrees or higher in 64 years, and June 20 only five. Temperatures of 100 degrees are seldom experienced, the total number of such days in the last 64 years being 23—but 18 of these fell in the last seven years (mostly in 1931 and 1934). Prior to 1930, during 57 years, there had been only five occurrences of 100 degrees in June. The normal average for June is 75 degrees; the lowest average, 68.6 degrees in 1928; the highest, 82.6 degrees in 1934.

St. Louis cannot compete with Lowell's Boston for an average of pleasant June temperatures (although Boston has had an extreme of 100 degrees in this month), nor with the Lake region, where it averages eight to ten degrees cooler than here; but the humidity is appreciably lower at St. Louis, with 55 per cent at noon, as compared with 79 per cent at Boston, 63 at Cleveland, and 60 at Chicago.

June 21 is the longest day, and the sun's heating power is at the maximum, but owing to the well-known "lag" in the atmosphere's response, the air temperature normally does not reach its maximum until about the middle of July, on the same principle that the daily maximum does not occur at noon but two or three hours later.

Rainfall normally begins to decrease about the end of May, but June, with 3.62 inches, has the second greatest amount. The wettest of all months in St. Louis was June, 1846, when, according to

Dr. George Engelmann's record, the total was 17.07 inches. Since the Weather Bureau was established in 1870, the wettest June was in 1877, with 10.84 inches; the driest, in 1914, with 1.1 inch; the second driest, 1933, with 1.5.

The greatest officially recorded flood was in June, 1903, with a crest of 38 feet, or eight feet above flood stage; but the highest water ever known here, from records believed to be reliable, occurred in June, 1844, with a crest equivalent to 41.39 feet on the present gage. The last flood occurred in June, 1935, with 33.5 feet.

Thunderstorm days are slightly more frequent in June than in any other month, the normal number being eight. The average wind movement, 9.9 miles an hour, is considerably less than in May. The maximum velocity of record for June was 54 miles an hour from the southwest in 1919. Southerly winds prevail.

The Post-Dispatch Star Map should be held overhead with the letters marking the four directions.

THE CELESTIAL HUNTRESS MEETS THE WARRIOR

By Jessica Young Stephens of Washington University

The "morning stars" of June are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. Mercury rises about an hour before the sun and is low in the east at sunrise. Venus rises at about 3 a. m. and is a brilliant sight in the east before daybreak. Ringed Saturn rises at 1 a. m.

The "evening star" is ruddy Mars. It is conspicuous in the southern sky throughout the night.

The bright, yellow planet, Jupiter, rises at about 9 p. m. and travels through the southern sky until sunrise.

June 3—Moon passes eight degrees north of Saturn, which is as bright as a first magnitude star.

June 5—Moon passes six degrees north of Venus.

June 6—Mercury at greatest distance (twenty-four degrees) west of the sun. It is seen as a first magnitude star low in the east just before sunrise.

June 8—12:04 noon to 5:17 p. m. Total eclipse (Copyright, 1937, by Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

It shows the stars as they will appear to St. Louisans 9 to 11 p. m. on the first, 8 to 10 p. m. on the fifteenth, and 7 to 9 p. m. at the end of the month.

Roses Are the Flower for June

By SUPT. GEORGE H. PRING of Shaw's Garden
President, St. Louis Horticultural Society

Although an unusually late Spring has carried with it, into June, many of the ordinary more early flowers, like peonies and iris, they still only serve as ladies in waiting to the Queen of June, the Rose. While roses are obviously not at their best in this climate, they yield us more beauty and charm for a larger part of the season than anything else in garden.

The actual planting time was, of course, when the roses were dormant, a month or more ago. However, it is possible to fill in with potted roses in the growing season. Remove the lower portion of the pot before planting, carefully loosen the soil at the base of the plant and straighten out the twisted roots. If this is not done the twisted root will eventually strangle itself or starve to death.

If the few necessary rules for rose hygiene are followed, you will have relatively little trouble. For any chewing insects use the usual stomach poison—arsenate of lead. The sucking insects require a contact spray—nicotine. In the latter case use the aphids, very bad this year due to the cool weather which keeps back the development of their natural enemy, the lady bug.

Also likely to be bothersome this season are black spot, a bacterial disease, and mildew, a fungus. For black spot, first remove and burn all infected or fallen leaves to destroy the infection, and then spray both plants and soil with Bordeaux mixture. Black spot is encouraged by water standing on the foliage over night. So it is well to water roses thoroughly about three times a week, in the early morning before the sun gets too hot.

Mildew, being a fungus, will yield to dusting with sulphur. Use true dusting sulphur, which may be applied in a cheese cloth bag, tied to the end of a stick, and thoroughly shaken over the plant while the dew is still on. Massey dust combines sulphur with lead arsenate. A mildew common on climbing roses sometimes yields to a strong soap spray. For those who would rather use one remedy for everything, there is a splendid, though not inexpensive, all-around triple spray.

Roses are rank feeders, and are very partial to cow manure, used as a mulch in the fall, and dug in during the spring spading. During the growing season, applications of liquid manure may be made, a quart to each bush every week or two.

If you like your garden to look dressed up, you will find it helpful to use a ground cover of some shallow-rooted plants. The roses appreciate the additional protection for their roots in hot weather. At the Missouri Botanical Garden we have found Sweet Alyssum very attractive for early bloom; for late summer, the dark blue plumbago, Ceratostigma plumbaginoides, is extremely decorative.

SUIT TO DISBAR J. G. PARKINSON SR. OF ST. JOSEPH

State Disciplinary Committee Charges He Engaged in Fake Injury Claim Practice.

LAWYER ACCUSED OF USING RUNNERS

Petition in Supreme Court Alleges He Solicited Business and Split Fees With Laymen.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—Suit to disbar John G. Parkinson Sr., prominent St. Joseph attorney, was filed in the Missouri Supreme Court today by the State Bar Disciplinary Committee, which charged him with professional misconduct during the last 10 years by filing fraudulent personal injury damage suits.

Testimony given before the committee in hearings over a period of nearly two years was to the effect that Parkinson, aided by laymen and a woman osteopath, staged "accidents," splitting proceeds of settlements with his aids and clients for whom faked accidents were arranged. A transcript of the evidence given at the hearings accompanied the disbarment petition.

The petition charges that Parkinson solicited business through runners, accepted employment as an attorney in the initiation and in situation of fraudulent damage suits and divided fees with laymen. Four alleged instances of faked claims are specified in the petition, including three in which the committee says illegal operations were performed on women, who then participated in arranged "accidents," alleging that the "accidents" produced the effects resulting actually from the operations.

Denial by Parkinson.

Parkinson had denied to the Bar Committee that he had been guilty of any unethical conduct.

In one of the cases involving woman clients, the petition alleges, Mrs. Eva Bessie Hinkle Ramsey submitted to an illegal operation in 1933 and then deliberately fell while riding on a bus, thus carrying out of a plan pre-arranged with Oscar Payne, a railroad mechanic, named as a runner for Parkinson. Afterward, it is alleged, she employed Parkinson through Payne, agreeing to give the attorney half of whatever sum of money she collected from the bus company. The St. Joseph Railway, Heat, Light & Power Co., which operated the bus line, settled for $750, the petition continues, adding that Mrs. Ramsey received only $50 from Parkinson. Mrs. Ramsey testified against Parkinson at the committee hearings.

Another Case Mentioned.

Another witness for the bar committee, Mrs. Minnie B. Jeffers of Des Moines, Ia., formerly of St. Joseph, agreed to submit to an illegal operation and then to participate in an arranged automobile accident, the petition goes on. George W. Barker, a brother of Mrs. Ramsey, was to drive the automobile after taking out liability insurance, the petition relates.

Parkinson, the petition sets forth, was to retain 75 per cent of any settlement with the insurance company and Mrs. Jeffers was to get 25 per cent. Parkinson was to turn over one-third of his share to Barker and distribute another third to a woman osteopath, alleged to have performed the operation, and others connected with the alleged plot, according to the petition.

The petition says suit was filed for Mrs. Ramsey and settled for $1500, of which she said she got $200. Barker told the committee he received $170 as his share but that he had paid for the liability insurance, according to the transcript filed with the petition.

Osteopath Denies Part.

Blanche Rennie of St. Joseph, an osteopath, named in the petition as one of the conspirators in the Jeffers case, denied before the Bar Committee that Mrs. Jeffers ever was in her office, that she ever had performed an illegal operation or that she knew anything about faked claims. Mrs. Jeffers had testified in a deposition included in the transcript that she went to the osteopath's office for an operation. The plan for an "accident" was suggested to her by the osteopath, she said in the deposition.

Parkinson, the petition continues, represented Lloyd Webb and two women in damage claims against a cleaning company following a "staged" accident in which they appeared to have been hit by a truck owned by the cleaning company and driven by a man alleged

State Disciplinary Committee Charges He Engaged in Fake Injury Claim Practice.

Petition in Supreme Court Alleges He Solicited Business and Split Fees With Laymen.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—
Sut to disbar John G. Parkinson Sr., prominent St. Joseph attorney, was filed in the Missouri Supreme Court today by the State Bar Disciplinary Committee, which charged him with professional misconduct during the last 10 years by filing fraudulent personal injury damage suits.

Testimony given before the committee in hearings over a period of nearly two years was to the effect that Parkinson, aided by laymen and a woman osteopath, staged "accidents," splitting proceeds of settlements with his aids and clients for whom faked accidents were arranged. A transcript of the evidence given at the hearings accompanied the disbarment petition.

The petition charges that Parkinson solicited business through runners, accepted employment as an attorney in the initiation and institution of fraudulent damage suits and divided fees with laymen.
Four alleged instances of faked claims are specified in the petition, including three in which the committee says illegal operations were performed on women, who then participated in arranged "accidents," alleging that the "accidents" produced the effects resulting actually from the operations.

Denial by Parkinson.
Parkinson had denied to the Bar Committee that he had been guilty of any unethical conduct.
In one of the cases involving woman clients, the petition alleges, Mrs. Eva Bessie Hinkle Ramsey submitted to an illegal operation in 1933 and then deliberately fell while riding on a bus, thus carrying out of a plan pre-arranged with Oscar Payne, a railroad mechanic, named as a runner for Parkinson.
Afterward, it is alleged, she employed Parkinson through Payne, agreeing to give the attorney half of whatever sum of money she collected from the bus company. The St. Joseph Railway, Heat, Light & Power Co., which operated the bus line, settled for $750, the petition continues, adding that Mrs. Ramsey received only $50 from Parkinson. Mrs. Ramsey testified against Parkinson at the committee hearings.

Another Case Mentioned.
Another witness for the bar committee, Mrs. Minnie B. Jeffers of Des Moines, Ia., formerly of St.
Joseph, agreed to submit to an illegal operation and then to participate, as the victim, in an arranged automobile accident, the petition states. On George W. Barker, a brother of Mrs. Ramsey, was to drive the automobile after taking out liability insurance, the petition relates.

Parkinson, the petition sets forth, was to retain 75 per cent of any settlement with the insurance company and Mrs. Jeffers was to ret 25 per cent. Parkinson was to turn over one-third of his share third to a woman osteopath, alleged to have performed the operation, and others connected with the alleged plot, according to the petition.
The petition says suit was filed for Mrs. Ramsey and settled for $1500, of which she said she got $200. Barker told the committee he received $170 as his share but that he had to pay for the liability insurance, according to the transcript filed with the petition.
Osteopath Denies Part.
Blanche Rennie of St. Joseph, an osteopath, named in the petition as one of the conspirators in the Jeffers case, denied before the Bar Committee that Mrs. Jeffers ever was in her office, that she ever had performed an illegal operation or that she knew anything about faked claims. Mrs. Jeffers had testified in a deposition included in the transcript that she went to the osteopath's office for an operation. "The plan for an 'accident' was suggested to her by the osteopath," she said in the deposition.
Parkinson, the petition continues, represented Lloyd Webb and two women in damage claims against a cleaning company following a "staged" accident in which they appeared to have been hit by a truck owned by the cleaning company and driven by a man alleged

Nazis Ask Why Vatican Has Not Disavowed Mundelein's Words

Note Declares Failure to Do So Endangers Relations—No Diplomatic Break, Foreign Office Says.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, June 1.—The German Government formally accused the Vatican today of endangering normal relations by failing to disavow the anti-Nazi speech of George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago.
A diplomatic note, delivered by Diego von Bergen, German Ambassador to the Vatican, said:
"The Holy See must realize that its unexpected, and incomprehensible attitude in this matter, so long as it remains unremedied, has removed the pre-conditions for the normal course of relations between the German Government and the Roman Curia."
(The Roman Curia is the body of congregations, tribunals and offices through which the Pope governs the church.)
Relations Not Being Ended.
The Foreign Office here said the note did not mean that relations with the Vatican were now being broken off. Von Bergen, it was explained, left Rome on his usual summer vacation, but it was stated,
"he will not go back for some time."
Earlier the German Government had made formal representations to the Vatican against Cardinal Mundelein's speech, in which he called Reichsfuehrer Hitler "an Austrian paper hanger and a poor one, at that," and assailed German trials of priests and lay brothers on immorality charges as "atrocious propaganda."
To those representations, it was announced here, Von Bergen received a verbal reply which later was confirmed in writing. It has not been published, but obviously it

3C GASOLINE TAX BILL IS SENT TO GOVERNOR

House Concurs in Senate Amendments—Act in Effect Dec. 8, 1938.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—An increase in the State gasoline tax was assured today when the House voted to concur in seven Senate amendments to a bill proposing to increase the tax from 2 cents to 3 cents a gallon. The bill now goes to the Governor.

The increase, which is expected to provide about $6,000,000 a year in additional revenue for road construction and maintenance purposes, will become effective Dec.
8, 1938, shortly after the expiration of the present constitutional provision limiting the tax to 2 cents a gallon.
The bill is considered to be the most important of Gov. Stark's administration measures. Despite some formidable opposition to it, legislative leaders in the two houses were virtually unanimous for it because of the promise given them that most of the increase would be used to build the farm highways. Opponents of the measure also contended the new revenue was necessary because of increasing road bond funding needs.
The bill was passed in spite of the assertion by some opponents that it was unconstitutional. They contended that the State Constitution in limiting the amount of the tax until November, 1938, states the Legislature has no power to "levy or collect" an increase in the tax until after that date. Under that provision, it was argued, the Assembly has no authority to increase the tax before the expiration date,
even though the law it passes does not become effective until several weeks later.

GROCERY MANUFACTURERS CRITICISE WAGE AND HOUR BILL

Association Urges Changing It to "Make It Economically Workable."

HOT SPRINGS, Va., June 1.—
The Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America at their mid-year meeting here yesterday indorsed the "social objectives" of the Connery-Black wage and hour bill, but asserted the bill must be drawn "to make it economically workable."
The association's survey showed that their total employment and payrolls have increased steadily and today are at the highest point in their history.
The association stated that "unless the wages and hours bill is drawn so as to conform to fundamental economics, it cannot achieve its social purpose."

'HITLER AND MUSSOLINI' WAGING WAR IN SPAIN'

Norman Thomas, in Paris
After Visit, Says They Secretly Fomented Struggle.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, June 1.—Norman Thomas, American Socialist leader, said yesterday that Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini were waging war "with particular frightfulness" on the Spanish people "in a struggle which they themselves secretly fomented."
Thomas, accompanied by Mrs.
Thomas, arrived in Paris after spending some time in Barcelona on a visit to the Spanish Government-held Spain. He asserted the insurgent air bombardment of Valencia Friday, which occurred while he and Mrs. Thomas were there, was "an act of war by German and Italian flyers under the direct control of their governments."
"Almost certainly their base of operations is the Island of Majorca which now is in Italian hands," he said.

Thomas charged that while Hitler and Mussolini "wage this war their representatives sit on the so-called Non-Intervention Committee and their navies patrol the Mediterranean coast on which both of the principal cities of Loyalist Spain (Valencia and Barcelona) are located. (Italy and Germany now have withdrawn from the so-called Neutrality Committee.)

"The world, all too familiar with hypocrisy, has scarcely seen anything equal to this performance in the history of the world. The assembly has no authority to increase the tax before the expiration date,
even though the law it passes does
not become effective until several weeks later.

The Senate, recognizing that threat, passed an amendment providing that the present tax should continue in force after the expiration date, even though the one cent additional levy were declared void.

Alberta Again Defaults on Bonds.
EDMONTON, Alberta, June 1.—
Provincial Treasurer Sol Low announced today that Alberta's Social Credit Government will default on a $1,650,000 bond maturity due today. It will be the third default on a major bond issue in 14 months.

IDEA DEBT TO U. S. IS NOT REPUDIATED AMUSES COMMONS

Chuckles Greet Statement of Premier Neville Chamberlain Urging New Tax.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 1.—Opposition members of the House of Commons laughed at Neville Chamberlain, the new Prime Minister, when he declared today, "It is not true to say that we have repudiated the American debt."
Chamberlain, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, making his first address to the House as Prime Minister, replied to attacks against his finance program, when he declared today, "It is not true to say that we have repudiated the American debt."
The German Government, in the interest of German-Vatican relations, was moved to take steps through its Ambassador in the expectation that Vatican circles would be concerned with averting injury to relations between Germany and the Curia as the result of Cardinal Mundelein's attacks.
"The German Government assumed as matter of course that the Holy See would dissociate itself from the Cardinal's utterances, recast them and express its regrets, as has been customary in international intercourse.
"To its sharp surprise and deep astonishment, however, the Holy See deemed it fit to leave the Ambassador's representations unanswered on the grounds that the Cardinal's unsubstantiated and untrue allegations constituted, at most, a retort in kind.
"The German Government is therefore obliged to conclude that the Holy See leaves the unqualified attacks by one of its highest dig-nitaris against the German chief of state uncorrected, and in the eyes of the world supports them."
"The Holy See must realize that its unexpected and incomprehensible attitude in this matter, so long as it remains unremedied, has removed the pre-conditions for the normal course of relations between the German Government and the Roman Curia."
"For this development the Curia alone bears the full responsibility."
At the office of the Papal Nuncio, Mgr. Cesare Orsenigo, it was stated that he had received no instructions from the Vatican to leave Berlin.

New Japan-North China Air Route. NANKING, China, June 1.—The Chinese Government ordered the suspension of the Tokyo-Tientsin air service today immediately upon inauguration of the new air route connecting Japan and North China. The official order asserted the service was "outwardly a Chinese- Japanese undertaking but in real- ity was Japanese only—with no permission to enter China."

Three Arrests in Philippine Plot. MANILA, June 1.—Police arrest- ed a man and two women and con- fiscated 432 sticks of dynamite to- day in what they said was a ter- roristic plot. Police reported the prisoners were from Rizal Province, a stronghold for the radical Sak- dalistas who were blamed for an uprising two years ago in which 64 lives were lost.

HOUSE OF PEERS PRESIDENT NEW PREMIER IN JAPAN

Prince Fumimaro Konoye Is Assured Backing of Major Porties and Army Leaders.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, June 1.—Emperor Hiro-hito today commanded Prince Fumimaro Konoye, president of the House of Peers, to form a Cabinet to succeed the semi-military government of Premier Senjuro Hayashi, which resigned yesterday. Prince Konoye was reported to have been assured the backing not only of the major political parties, which forced the downfall of the Hayashi Cabinet, but also of the powerful army leaders.
It was generally thought the new government would be a national coalition committed to a large army and navy, drastic administrative reforms, and a strong foreign policy.
Determined opposition to Gen.
Hayashi by the major political parties, which won all but 11 of the 466 Diet seats in the parliamentary elections, April 30, caused the Cabinet to resign. It had been in office only four months—the second shortest term in modern Japanese history—and had threatened to perpetuate its government by dissolving the Diet.

Immediately after leaving the Emperor, Prince Konoye appointed Kakichi Kawarada, Home Minister in the resigned Hayashi Cabinet, as chief of his personal staff. Kawarada will have charge of the headquarters established by the Prince to facilitate formation of the Cabinet. Konoye is well known in the United States, which he last visited in the summer of 1934.
He is a member of one of the country's oldest and most noble families and is a close friend of Prince Kimmochi Saionji, last of Japan's elder statesmen. He had been prominently mentioned for the premiership but was unwilling to undertake the task.
Army support of Prince Konoye's attempt to form a Government was indicated by the decision of Lieutenant-General Gen. Sugiyama, to retain the War Ministry portfolio.
The Minister of Marine, Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, also was expected to be a hold-over from the Hayashi cabinet.
Former Premier Koki Hirota, who was head of the Government that preceded Gen. Hayashi's cabinet, was considered the strongest candi-

Hirota's own government fell partly because of strong parliamentary criticism of his Chinese policy.
Diet opponents accused him of failure to effect an amicable settlement of relations with the Chinese Republic.

U. S. CUSTOMS COURT MEETS But All Cases Here Are Postponed Until Fall.

The United States Customs Court held its biennial session in the Civil Courts building today but all of the 146 cases on its docket were postponed until the next sitting, to be held sometime in October.
Judge David I. Kinchloe of New York, one of the nine judges of the court, presided. Some of the cases were abandoned, but most were put over because of lack of witnesses or on pleas for continuance.

BOMBAY, June 1.—Three persons were killed and 125 injured yesterday in rioting which broke out in the Kamatipura section of Bombay.
The disorders, which spread rapidly, began when sticks and stones were thrown at a Hindu marriage procession as it passed a mosque.
Police opened fire on the rioters.

POPE 80 YEARS OLD; FOREGOES RADIO TALK

Physician Urges Him Against Over Exertion—Postpones Academy Dedication.

By the Associated Press.
CASTEL GONDOLFO, June 1.—
Pope Pius XI was thought last night to be giving serious attention to the Spanish war crisis after cancelling plans for celebration of his eightieth birthday yesterday.
The official explanation for postponement of inauguration of the new Pontifical Academy at which the Pontiff planned to make a world radio broadcast was that his personal physician, Dr. Aminta Milani, urged him not to overtax himself.
The Pontifical Academy was inaugurated today in the presence of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal
Secretary of State. Opening addresses were made by the academy's president, Father Agostino Gemelli, and Professor de la Vallée Poussin of Louvain University.
Among the Americans present for the ceremonies were Dr. Alexis Carrel of New York City and George D. Birkhoff of Harvard University.
It was regarded as significant that the Pope's address, on science and religion, was canceled and that no arrangements had been made for its subsequent broadcast or publication.
Yesterday afternoon, the Pope took a 90-minute drive through the villa gardens in an automobile.

RIGHT-WING SOCIALISTS FAVOR CIO FOR MASS PRODUCTION

Convention Deplores Split With A.
F. of L. and Appeals for Reconciliation.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 1.— Right-Wing Socialists, the Social Democratic Federation, went on record yesterday in favor of industrial unionism in mass production industries. At the same time they deplored the split between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization and urged a reconciliation.
The Socialists closed a two-day convention attended by 150 delegates from 19 states. It was the federation's first convention since they broke away from the National Socialist party at Cleveland last year.
Mayor Jasper McLevy of Bridgeport, Conn., was elected national chairman.
The convention urged continued support of the Spanish Loyalist Government; condemned dictatorships and advocacy of force as methods of social change; favored a system of national health insurance and expressed approval of the Wagner-Steagall Housing Bill.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Labor Views State Senators.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
We desire to thank you sincerely for your support in labor's battle for major bills in the interest of the workers and the public at this session of the Legislature. This applies specially to the bill for a pooled plan of unemployment insurance as against the employer reserve plan, and to the minimum-wage legislation.

The latter seems doomed, as Senator Briggs, who is now and always has been against social reform and betterment of working conditions, appears to be a disciple of the Associated Industries and big business. He and a few others, members of the Senate committee handling the minimum-wage law for women and minors, no doubt planned to stall the legislation by default of hearings, and, when this was not possible, by delay.

Missouri will have a minimum-wage law some day, and we hope the progressive Senators will not permit our great industrial State to remain longer in the backward list as to reasonable and needed social legislation as we did with workmen's compensation and old-age pensions.

It is interesting to note the record of six Senators who persistently vote against reforms until final passage and who then climb on the bandwagon and try to hide their records by voting with popular sentiment.
D. W. GRAMLING,
Vice-Chairman, Missouri Joint Labor Legislative Committee, Jefferson City.

That Non-Resident Tax Plan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Any plan to tax non-residents for the privilege of working in St. Louis, as proposed by an ad hoc committee, might arouse some dangerous retaliations. Such insularity is archaic and opposed to the principles of free trade.

Considering construction work and all sorts of personal service and sales service, it is safe to say that St. Louisans make more money outside St. Louis than suburbanites make in St. Louis. And it should be remembered that people who come here to work remain to buy.

Carried to its ultimate conclusion, the time may come when every trade emissary will be taxed by every town he visits.

We do not live for ourselves alone, and an industrial city sells outside more than it buys outside.
ROVER.

A Defense of Married Women Workers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
REFERRING to the interview with President Donohue of the Women's College to advocate that married women, as a group, withdraw from gainful occupation is unfair to those with unusual ability and unkind to those who through necessity must seek employment.

To retire this group simultaneously would result in loss of service unequalled in wartime or by general strikes. Here are just a few examples: Many of our best obstetricians are married women with children. Laundresses almost invariably have families. Farmers' wives rear children and raise chickens. Beauticians are usually married or engaged. Many telephone operators are married. (Does any American male want to be either of the last mentioned?)

To whom will the efficient office worker give her place? A bachelor without ambition advanced to my own position, one for which I qualified by attending St. Louis University three nights a week for four years.

Now it is necessary that I return to work. One breadwinner is not enough for my family. I do not fear competitors of equal ability, but I must face such propaganda as Dr. Donohue's and that of the Catholic Women's Association.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE members of the St. Louis Bird Club are always glad to see articles such as that about the warblers. It was attractive information and well placed in the magazine section. The Post-Dispatch is making an effective contribution to public interest in birds.

It is fun watching birds, and it's good to let people know about it. Thank you very much indeed.
ANNE LOFTUS, Secretary,
St. Louis Bird Club.

Mr. Greengard's Incompetents.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THERE are some things in Louis Greengard's statements published in the Post-Dispatch of May 26 which do not seem exactly reasonable. Why did Mr. Greengard find so many incompetent pharmacists?

In a city like ours, Mr. Greengard could have had a pick of competent pharmacists. He could have applied at the St. Louis College of Pharmacy; he could have made use of references at three large wholesale drug concerns; he could have made use of numerous other sources which do not lend references to any but pharmacists of known knowledge, ability and integrity.

Did not Mr. Greengard perhaps employ all these 20 incompetents (his word) because they were low bidders for the job instead of employing pharmacists of known ability and proper background of training?
HONOR GRADUATE.

STARS IN THE BRITISH ORBIT.

Baldwin, MacDonald, Chamberlain have been front-row figures in British public life. The first two have retired, Stanley Baldwin to an earldom and presently to resume his avocation of raising pigs; Ramsay MacDonald, declining a peerage, in the interest of his son's political future, it is explained, to write his memoirs. Neville Chamberlain moves into 10 Downing street, the residence of the Prime Minister, as Mr. Baldwin's successor, from the adjoining house he has occupied as Chancellor of the Exchequer. Anthony Eden, the dashing, youthful Minister of Foreign Affairs, will nominally continue in office, though observers close to the scene are predicting that Prime Minister Chamberlain will be his own Foreign Minister.

The change in government, long in preparation, occasioned scarcely a ripple on the surface of events. It is common knowledge that Mr. Baldwin had wearied of the premiership, had turned over many of his official duties to Mr. Chamberlain, and probably would have resigned some time ago except for the constitutional crisis precipitated by the royal romance that ended in the dramatic climax of Edward's abdication. His place in ministerial history had otherwise been that of trustworthy, respectable competence, with hardly a trace of that appeal to popular imagination that has marked so many of his pictorial predecessors. But Edward fell in love, and the dignity of the monarchical institution was challenged, and the Constitution could not be amended to sanction the King's choice, and the world held its breath as the Prime Minister marshaled parliamentary support of his position of refusing to accede, officially, to an idolized young man's fancy.

So Stanley Baldwin, British Squire incarnate, chivalrously honorable in business, steps out of the light that beats upon a throne, acclaimed "the savior of the monarchy."

The latter years of Ramsay MacDonald have been almost posthumous. Once the hope and expectancy of the British Labor party, the first from the ranks to become Prime Minister, with gifts of eloquence to command the applause of many listening Senates, a missionary of peace preaching his gospel of good will in Washington as in London, addressing the world from the pulpit of Geneva, avatar of a new order, he was to be denounced as a traitor to his class, to know the humiliation of popular repudiation, to pass into comparative obscurity while yet in the company and wearing the habiliments of power.

The new Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, son of Joseph Chamberlain, half-brother of Sir Austen, comes into office equipped by heritage, training, experience and character. Making his public debut as Lord Mayor of Birmingham during the war, he established the first municipal bank in England and the most successful in the world. When Austen Chamberlain was winning the Garter at Geneva with the Locarno pact, Neville, as Minister of Health, was laying the foundation of better housing for British wage-earners. It is of record he declined the chancellorship of the Exchequer to remain in that post where he could fight his father's battle for social betterment.

But the Exchequer was to come, and, in that office, this striking picture of him is presented by Ferdinand Kuhn Jr. in the New York Times:

He stood in the shadowy entrance of the House of Commons behind the Speaker's chair, waiting for the moment . . . to begin the most contentious budget speech since David Lloyd George proposed the taxation of land values back in 1909. He stood at ease with a confident smile on his lips. He had within him a secret, a tax of such unexpected severity that it was to spread consternation in the financial markets and precipitate a major collapse on the stock exchange. Yet there was a sense of easy mastery in his manner . . . which might have resembled arrogance in any other man.

"No British Prime Minister since Mr. Lloyd George has faced his task with such unshakable faith in his own ability to master it," the same writer asserts.

A MASTERPIECE.

Under the cartoon today, we print an article which is a masterpiece of solemn absurdity. It is about the teaching of history in Nazi Germany. Poor old Herr Klagges, who tells about it, is a professional prostitute whose essay on truth is about as convincing as the confession of a man whom the cops are massaging with a rubber hose. When history is shaped to fit the fantastic philosophy of National Socialism, Lady Clio, we imagine, will take a nose-dive from the top of Mount Olympus. Read about the historical tripe that is being set before the innocent children of Germany—and weep.

A CURB ON THE TIPSTER SHEETS.

The action of Washington correspondents in clamping down on "tipsters" and other purveyors of alleged confidential information is to protect not only themselves, but also Government officials and the general public. Some of these services, with their claim of presenting "inside details," have become first-class nuisances and wholesale agencies of misinformation. Only by sensational "disclosures" can they hold their customers, so anonymous rumors and fervid imaginations have become frequent news sources.

The most recent episode concerned an alarming report about the President's health, sent out by one agency. This hoax was the straw that exhausted both Mr. Roosevelt's and the regular correspondents' patience.

The press is free in this country, and any verifiable item of significance about the Government reaches the printed page. With newspapers of varied political complexion represented at the capital by experienced reporters, there is no chance for suppression of news, either by censorship or as a favor to officials. The tipster sheets specialize in rumors, and their closest approach to usefulness is in adding their opinions to the torrent of speculation about events in Washington.

VOTE FRAUD—FOR WHOM?

Some Missouri Democrats who should know better are trying to palliate the responsibility of the party machine in Kansas City for the frauds of last November. One-half of those indicted, they say, have been Republicans. The essential fact which they omit is that the frauds, wrought by machine Democrats and subservient so-called Republicans, were exclusively in the interest of the Democratic ticket. In this case, the question is not so much by whom the crooked work was done as for whom it was done.

These apologists for fraud would be better occupied in efforts to reduce the influence and importance of the Kansas City crew in the councils of the State Democracy. Such service has been and is being performed by the Democratic members of the Federal grand and petit juries for the Western Missouri District. Those good Democrats and honorable men probably found their chief satisfaction in indicting and convicting the scoundrels who disgraced their party, while their Republican colleagues felt the same way about the potrooms who got themselves appointed as Republican election officials in order to betray their party's ticket.

IN THE OPEN AT LAST.

The opposition to a minimum-wage law for women and minors in Missouri has now been brought into the open. Thanks to a slip-up, the bill which passed the House overwhelmingly got out of committee in the State Senate. When it was sent back for further consideration in an effort to shelve it for the remainder of the session, a hearing was virtually forced. At the hearing, the organizations with representatives to testify against the bill were:

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.
The Associated Retailers of St. Louis.
The Missouri Restaurant Owners' Association.

Typical of the testimony was that of Thomas H. Rogers, representing the Chamber of Commerce. Describing the proposed legislation as "too far-reaching" for adoption without full information as to its effect, Mr. Rogers requested postponement until a fact-finding body could make the necessary research.

Has Mr. Rogers ever heard of the United States Supreme Court? The Supreme Court recently passed upon the minimum-wage law which the State of Washington has had in force since 1913—24 years. It upheld the law in an opinion which was one of the frankest discussions of an economic problem ever to be handed down. Said Chief Justice Hughes, who gave the court's decision:

The exploitation of a class of workers who are in an unequal position with respect to bargaining power and are thus relatively defenseless against the denial of a living wage is not only detrimental to their health and well-being but casts a direct burden for their support upon the community. What these workers lose in wages, the taxpayer is called upon to pay. The bare cost of living must be met.

We may take judicial notice of the unparalleled demands for relief which arose during the recent period of the depression and still continue to an alarming extent despite the degree of economic recovery which has been achieved. It is unnecessary to cite official statistics to establish what is of common knowledge through the length and breadth of the land. While in the instant case no factual brief has been presented, there is no reason to doubt that the State of Washington has encountered the same social problem that is present elsewhere.

The community is not bound to provide what is in effect a subsidy for unconscionable employers. The community may direct its law-making power to correct the abuse which springs from their selfish disregard of the public interest.

The Chamber of Commerce, the Associated Retailers, the Restaurant Owners and the legislative bosses of the Senate may very well have strangled minimum wage legislation for women and minors for this session. It would be a miracle if the bill were passed now. But the sorry experience has not been without benefits, for the issue is joined. On the one side is the public interest, represented by the Supreme Court. On the other is shortsighted selfishness.

FANATICISM PACIFISM.

A year ago, the Socialist majority of the Reading (Pa.) City Council rejected a plan for a memorial to the late Lieutenant-General Hunter Liggett, A. E. F. commander, who was born in Reading. Now the same Council has turned down an offer of a memorial tablet to Gen. Liggett from the Army and Navy Club of San Francisco, where he was last a commanding officer. One may respect the conscientious scruples of these Socialists against war and at the same time set down these actions as bad judgment. Hunter Liggett was not only an exceptional army officer with a long record of service in Cuba, the Philippines, along the Mexican border and in major engagements in France; he was as well a citizen in whom his birthplace has a right to take pride. The cause of peace is harmed rather than helped by shortsightedness such as that displayed by the Reading Council.

PROGRESS OF A PUBLIC HEALTH CAUSE.

Illinois is on the way to becoming the leader among the states in the national fight against venereal disease. The bill to require applicants for marriage licenses to undergo a physical examination to establish proof of freedom from syphilis and gonorrhea has now passed the State Senate and been sent to the House for concurrence in Senate amendments. Inasmuch as the Senate amendments were proposed by Illinois medical authorities with a view to strengthening the measure and assuring full enforcement, there should be no question as to their approval by the House.

The Illinois State Department of Public Health, headed by Dr. Frank J. Jirka, is to be commended for the intelligent and convincing demonstration made in behalf of this measure while it was pending in the Senate.

One excellent sequel of the action in Illinois is the introduction of a bill in the Wisconsin Legislature to amend Wisconsin's marriage examination law, which now applies only to men, so as to require women also to show proof of freedom from venereal disease. Other states, responding to the pressure of public opinion for protection against this great killer, will be enacting legislation of the same sort in the near future. Any "disadvantage" which Illinois or Wisconsin may suffer with respect to the issuance of marriage licenses will not only be inconsequential, but temporary as well. Here is a public health obligation for Missouri to keep in mind.

GOV. STARK'S OPPORTUNITY.

Not one member of the Missouri Senate had the courage to oppose Boss Tom's permanent registration bill for Kansas City, or the similar measure for St. Louis, although both lack the vital signature requirement. The votes were, respectively, 21 to 0 and 23 to 0. The bills now go to the House for concurrence in Senate amendments.

The new Kansas City measure is based on the model bill drawn up in 1929, and is satisfactory except for the one glaring defect, omission of the vital signature provision. The St. Louis bill also is generally sound save for omitting this requirement. The situation creates an opportunity for Gov. Stark. Thus far, the Governor has taken no active part in the fight, after urging sound permanent registration laws in his inaugural message. Now is his chance to go to bat for the provision that stands, by the test of other cities' experience, as the most effective safeguard against election fraud.

How the Nazis Teach History

Clericalism, liberalism or Marxism ruled teaching of history in past, Nazi official charges, so now its "forming and shaping spirit" in Germany must be National Socialism, defined as the spirit of Adolf Hitler; writer opposes objectivity, and demands patriotism be only standard; urges placing emphasis on theory of Nordic supremacy.

From Monthly Bulletin of the Friends of Europe, London.

MINISTER DIETRICH KLAGGES contributes an article on "History Teaching in the Spirit of National Socialism" in the December, 1936, issue of Buchers Kunde (Bibliography), an official monthly organ dealing with German literature, published in Bayreuth. The substance of this article follows. Minister Klagges writes:

"It is the spirit in which instruction is given which will determine the significance of history teaching in the National Socialist education of youth. Just as history writing and teaching in the past carried the stamp of the spirit of clericalism, liberalism or Marxist historical materialism, so today the forming and shaping spirit in history teaching must be that of National Socialism."

This carries with it an extraordinary clarification and simplification of the situation. "The spirit of National Socialism is the spirit of Adolf Hitler and nothing else. Compared with all other philosophic systems, which are nearly all so difficult and complicated that only their authors understand them, this system is marked by a wonderful popular simplicity."

Intellectuals used to complain that it was not scientific. In fact, this quality now "eases the historic work of education in an extraordinary manner."

"In five words: struggle, leader, national state, people's community and race, the content of the National Socialist outlook is comprised, in so far as national political education in its spirit is of consequence."

Minister Klagges then characterizes each of these five key words. Under "leader" he contrasts National Socialism with Bolshevism, "which by human folly proclaims class as the social community, whereas in National Socialism it is the God-created people's community which is the supporting social principle."

The people are sustained by "race, the natural community of individuals of equal inheritance, which as Nordic race still today builds the strong core of the German people."

The spirit of history teaching takes first place. Then comes method. Minister Klagges attacks the "sachliche" (positive) boredom of much of the former teaching and sets up Adolf Hitler's history teacher as a model, who, according to "Mein Kampf," could make his scholars "often forgot the present," and who sat there "often enthused to a bright glow and even moved to tears."

He attacks, too, the objectivity in history teaching, "which seeks to be just to everything and to excuse everything." "Such an objectivity to all-the-world, we reject."

"We will say 'No' to men and peoples who betray rather than lead, who destroy rather than construct. The acrobatics which would see all in order to forgive all excites our contempt. We have only one point of view—das Deutschland (German patriotism)—only one standard—the living will of the German people. We are objective when we are German."

He repudiates the accusation that such history teaching is "tendentious." "Not the lifting out of truth is tendentious, but the mutilation of truth. For the sake of this truth, a transformation of the view of history is unavoidable."

What is important in history teaching are not events, but the driving forces of history. These forces rest in "the life-world of the nation, the moving cause, of which one can say: What gravitation is in the universe, the life-world of the nation is in history. It rests in blood and race and is an eternal divine gift to a definite species of men (Menschentum)."

Many alien powers are associated with this unique and peculiar force of a people—such as the soil, the climate, foreign mental influences. The latter has been a gravely disturbing element to the German throughout history.

"For centuries, our people has struggled manfully and well to find the way back to itself—in mental struggle not less heroic than in the many bloody wars of its history. The National Socialist ring is the victorious conclusion of this struggle, the true German rebirth."

An important thing in history teaching, as Herr Hitler wrote, is "to recognize the main lines of development. To learn history is not to acquire knowledge, but to understand the present and serve one's own nation in the future. This implies knowledge of biological laws of national growth. For the school, this knowledge can be stated in the following simple form:

"We are nothing without the leader."

"The people is his future."

"Citizens are citizens of destiny. (Volks-genossenen)."

"The blood, thy highest treasure."

It is men who determine the course of events—"therefore, the great names of German history must be lifted out and so presented to youth that they become the foundation of an irresistible national feeling (Mein Kampf). The betrayers must also be contrasted with the leaders, so that no false picture of history arises, so that with the light the shadow may not be wanting."

History teaching must serve the present and the future. "Hence the new teaching of history is not shy of the present, as was the case in the past. But it does not fall into the opposite error of thinking only the present and the immediate past is of significance. The highest educational values indeed must be ascribed to the distant centuries and millennia of ancient history, because their periods are so completely rounded as to be more true from a historical point of view than other able to illumine the present and the future."

THE NEUTRALITY LAW.

From the Christian Science Monitor.

WITH all its defects, the neutrality law seems to be a step ahead. It would be better if there were a functioning system of peace machinery, with which the United States could co-operate in preventing war. And nobody should get the idea that the new law is an absolute preventive of American involvement in war. But the peace machinery is rusting away today. The United States bears its share of blame for this dangerous situation.

The General Welfare

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

MR. JUSTICE CARDOZO'S opinion in the old-age pension case acquires its vast importance for future constitutional law from the fact that it reinterprets the general welfare clause. It seems to regard that clause as a clear-cut grant of power, not as a bit of eighteenth century rhetoric. The clause in question reads: "The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States."

Does this mean literally that Congress is free to act as it sees fit to provide for the "general welfare"? Surely not, for if it did, the whole idea of a central government with limited powers would be lost; the tenth amendment, reserving undelegated powers to the states, would be a mockery.

The Supreme Court has consistently rejected the idea that the phrase "general welfare" was a grant of power in itself, and has regarded it merely as clarifying the scope of the taxing power. Now and then, commentators on the Constitution have argued in the contrary vein.

So far as one can judge from the present opinion, Justice Cardozo, with six other Justices concurring, is shaping a distinctly new interpretation of the welfare clause. He is not setting it above the more specific grants of power; he is not undermining the idea of a government of limited powers. But he is giving concrete meaning to the welfare clause.

Thus, the opinion argues at length the necessity for national action to deal with personal insecurity. It holds that only the central Government can take hold of the problem satisfactorily. And it finds that old-age security has a peculiarly intimate relationship to the "general welfare." Then, arguing that the legislation invades no exclusive province of the states, the opinion turns to the welfare clause as a basis for congressional action.

This is the way the Constitution has always been shaped to the changing needs of society. Undoubtedly, Justice Cardozo is reading a new meaning into the most pliant clause of the Constitution. If this trend is continued by the court, a vast avenue of national action will be opened.

To justify an exercise of power by Congress, it may be necessary only to show that the problem involved is in fact national in scope and is bound up in the general welfare. But it remains to be seen how far the court will carry this new principle, and what new limitations it will discover to circumscribe Federal power.

FARLEY'S CONTRIBUTION TO G. O. P.

From the New York World-Telegram.

NATIONAL CHAIRMAN HAMILTON, through an error in his mailing list, asked National Chairman Farley for a contribution to the G. O. P. cause.

But Jim has already done his bit. He did it recently when he threatened Western Senators for voting against the court-packing bill in committee. The contribution?

"When Senator O'Mahoney comes down here wanting help on a sugar bill, his opinion won't be bothering him, will it? Or when Senator McCarran wants aid for his State? It's all in the viewpoint."

What more could Hamilton want?

WHY was it thought desirable to jump together in one bill the prohibition of child labor, the limitation of hours, the fixing of minimum wages? Progressive countries have been legislating on these matters for 100 years and, until the New Deal came along, with the N. R. A. and now with the Connery bill, it was the practice of experienced reformers to deal with these subjects separately.

They are separate subjects. Minimum wages are concerned, only with the most poorly paid group of workers. On the other hand, the limitation of hours affects all workers. Child labor is a distinct problem in special occupations in certain regions. There is no more reason why one board and one law should attempt to deal with all of these at once than that there should be one board laying down the whole law covering all forms of property and contract.

To lump all these subjects together is to betray the fact that none of them has been seriously studied. In the Connery bill we are back at the same old foolishness, which the President himself has condemned in the N. R. A. the foolishness of trying to deal with steel companies and coal mines and textile mills and clothing factories in one fell swoop.

If the President takes seriously the several objectives of the Connery bill, if he really means business and is not making big gestures, the first thing to do is to dissect the bill into its component parts. The best way to begin would be to correct the Federal child labor act which the Supreme Court invalidated some years ago, improve it in the light of our present knowledge, and re-enact it as a separate bill.

It is as seems probable, the present court will overrule its own decision on child labor as it overruled its decision in the Adkins case, something real will have been accomplished. Child labor will have been made unlawful in interstate commerce and the confused struggle over the child labor amendment will be over.

The next step would be to draft a bill limiting the hours of labor in those specific industries where speeding up and other practices impair the health and ruin the nerves of workers.

The number of hours a man ought to work depends upon the kind of work he is doing. It is silly to fix the same number of hours for a man who has to work at the pace set by a machine or by a conveyor belt and for a man who works out of doors at a pace which he more or less sets for himself.

What to Do With the Connery Bill

ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY GIVES HONORS TO 572

The Rev. Fr. Hogan of Georgetown Delivers Commencement Address to Students.

"Return of God and the moral order" to a place in the teaching of American colleges and universities was demanded by the Rev. Fr. Hogan, S. J., Ph. D., dean of the Graduate School of Georgetown University, in the commencement address at the 119th annual commencement of St. Louis University today.

"By the elimination of God and the moral order," the Rev. Father Hogan said, "force must be substituted in all human activity, for the moral sanction of the natural law of God."

"Thus, human beings become the playthings of a government of men and force, deriving arbitrary rights which are arbitrarily granted them solely from human government, not from God and the moral law. That is tyranny; that is slavery. And that explains the use of the word 'tyranny' in the Declaration of Independence, arising from the dignity, the basis of all human liberty and human rights, and these are antecedent to all government."

Moral Order Necessary.

"The moral enemies of American liberty are not the members of any political party, who may make open incursions on our Declaration of Independence and our Constitution. The Constitution cannot stand when the ideas behind it no longer maintain. Those ideas are God the Creator; man's dignity, founded on his relationship to God; and a moral order with sanction in a life beyond the grave."

"Time was when our American colleges and universities understood and taught these truths about God and the moral order. Modern colleges and universities have found it difficult to maintain in such a position, to reject these ideas and their logical consequences. They have embraced an atheistic and materialistic philosophy of life. Whenever and wherever this happens, we find not only the decline of morals but also the force substituted for the moral sanctions of God and the natural law. The betrayal of the supremacy of morals, and hence the betrayal of American ideas and ideals, may be laid squarely on the shoulders of secular education."

"If our American educators will face their problem fearlessly and honestly, they will see that morals, and hence true human freedom, cannot be reassured their supremacy except by a frank return to a theistic philosophy. That will mean a prodigious return, in fact, to the ideas of the Middle Ages, and hence to a far country, where American education has wasted its substance, living riotously."

Morals Taught at St. Louis.

"Here at St. Louis University we do not merely speak of the need of morals, we teach morals; we train men in the substantial principles of morality. Here at St. Louis University we have a real solution, we have a real, definite remedy for the decline and fall of morals. And this solution, this remedy, is an adequately true and substantial education, which seeks to reduce all intellectual training and discoveries of research to their truly human purpose, the adequate and complete end of man, in other words, to humanize education and science."

The Rev. Harry B. Crimmins, S. J., Ph. D., new president of St. Louis University, presided at the commencement exercises. The speaker, Father Hogan, was formerly president of Fordham University.

Honors and awards were announced at the commencement exercises, held in the University gymnasium, in which degrees and certificates were awarded to 572 persons. Of these, 233 received bachelors' degrees in St. Louis University, Webster, Maryville and Fontbonne Colleges; 40 received masters' degrees in philosophy; 122 were made Doctors of Medicine, and 38 Doctors of Dental Surgery. Certificates were bestowed on 75 by the School of Commerce and Finance and the School of Nursing.

List of Honors.

The list of honors, announced by the Rev. Thomas M. Knapp, S. J., was headed by the names of those selected and appointed to membership in Alpha Sigma Nu, national fraternity of Jesuit colleges and universities in the United States. Those elected to membership were: Charles Henry Everett and James Aloysius Kearns Jr. of the College of Arts and Sciences; Morton Perin Chiles Jr. and John Sylvester Hubbs, School of Law; Kelly Charles Smith and Gerald Thomas Cowan, School of Commerce and Finance; Hiram Adoniram Laws III and John C. CHARLES G. DAWES IN SPEECH ASSAILS MASS MOVEMENTS

He Tells Hendrix College Graduates Not to "Follow the Crowd."

Guest at Harvey Couch.

CONWAY, Ark., June 1.—Directing criticism toward "mass movements" and regimentation, former Vice-President Charles G. Dawes told a Hendrix College graduating class yesterday "the man who amounts to anything never follows a crowd."

"In this day of mass movements," he said, "it is from the small towns and the small colleges that leadership has got to come. I don't believe the brain trust can improve over God-made human nature despite the fact that leaders are attempting to do just that with regulation and regimentation."

Dawes came to Conway as the guest of Harvey G. Couch, newly elected board chairman of the Arkansas City Southern Railroad.

Frederick H. Prince Says 'Nobody Knows What Will Happen Over There.'

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Frederick H. Prince, banker and chairman of the board of Armour & Co., said today that if the labor movement in America nominates John L. Lewis for the presidency in 1940 "the Republican and Democratic parties will have to draft President Roosevelt to beat him."

Interviewed aboard the Normandie, Prince said he believed that "the Republican party has gone to pieces and it is dead. There are too many theoretical politicians in the Government and in the party, and not enough men of practical sense. We are going to have a showdown for the fellow who cannot march on and go ahead."

Prince arrived here with the body of his world war hero son, Norman Prince, one of the founders of the Lafayette Escadrille. Shot down 20 years ago in a battle with a German aviator, young Prince has lain since then in the Lafayette tomb at St. Cloud, outside Paris. His parents went to Paris and brought the remains back because, Mr. Prince said:

"I wanted him to rest in his own country. Nobody knows what is going to happen over there."

They left immediately for Pennsylvania Station to join the train which will take their son's body to Washington, where services will be held at noon tomorrow. The body will lie in state at the railroad terminal in Washington until tomorrow morning and will then be placed in the Prince Chapel in Washington Cathedral.

Norman Prince was born Aug. 31, 1916, at Harvard graduate, he was sent to France in 1918 and helped organize the American Aerial Unit. He was credited with bringing down five enemy planes and had several narrow escapes before his death on Oct. 16, 1918.

His brother, Frederick Jr., was also in the escadrille and was badly wounded. He will meet the body in Washington.

150 Firemen Extinguish Blaze That Threatens Faculty Residence Wing of Main Building.

Fire which for a time threatened to destroy the faculty residence wing of the St. Louis University administration building, 221 North Grand boulevard, was extinguished by 150 firemen yesterday afternoon, after causing damage estimated by Fire Chief John J. O'Boyle at $10-000.

Trapped in his fourth-floor room,
Brother John B. Louis, 70 years old, was led to safety down a ladder raised to his window. He is the painter of the murals in the university's chapel and refectory.

About 50 Jesuits were in their rooms at 2:15 p. m. when the fire started just under the roof above the infirmary in the faculty residence wing, which extends westward from the administration building. They escaped without injury.

About 175 scholars, attracted by the flames shooting out from the roof and from the windows of several fourth-floor rooms, rushed to assist firemen. Many wrapped wet cloths about their heads and worked with chemical extinguishers and small hoses even before firemen arrived.

Library Little Damaged.
At first the flames threatened the 86,000-volume library, but only a few books were damaged. Many of the volumes are irreplaceable.
One picked up at random, printed in Latin, bore the publication date 1672. When it appeared the fire would reach the library, scholastics packed many of the more valuable books in laundry baskets and carried them to safety.

The students' chapel on the main floor was damaged by water. The sacrament was removed from the tabernacle in time to prevent damage and the altar and electric organ were covered with tarpaulin.
A painting of the Archangel Michael conquering Satan was punctured, apparently by a stream of water. It hung above a stairway at the fourth floor level. Sunlight streamed through the canvas as firemen cleared the floor of soggy plastering.

There were gaping holes in the roof on the West Pine boulevard side after the fire was out. The infirmary rooms and several rooms of lay brothers were damaged. The recreation room was slightly damaged. Water also caused a small amount of damage in the public library branch on the ground floor at the main entrance on Grand boulevard.

Four Alarms Sounded.
Four alarms of fire called 19 engine companies, seven hook and ladder companies and a water tower to the scene.

Cause of the fire was not determined. As a result of a recommendation made about a year ago by firemen, two handball courts had been removed from the quadrangle on the West Pine side, making it possible to bring three aerial trucks close to the faculty residence wing. Hose lines raised to the fourth floor checked the flames on that side.

Traffic on Grand boulevard was stopped for about an hour and a half and street cars were halted for a half hour, until hose jumpers were brought to the scene. Spectators stood on Grand, West Pine and Lindell boulevards. Later in the evening the main entrance of the administration building was roped off.

There were no classes because of the holiday yesterday, but a few students were in the building. No one was in the infirmary. The brick building where the fire began has been in use 49 years.

The fire did not interfere with the baccalaureate service last night in St. Francis Xavier (College) Church, or with the commencement exercises today in the gymnasium.

UNIONS SETTLE WITH TWO BELLEVILLE CLEANING FIRMS

Strikes Called Last Wednesday Ended; Only One Other Group of Workers Still on Walkout.
The Paris Dyeing & Cleaning Co.
and the Apex Cleaning & Dyeing Co. of Belleville signed agreements yesterday with the new Laundry Workers' Union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, it was announced today by Anton Johnson, president of the Belleville District Labor Alliance.

The union called a strike last Wednesday at these two establishments and at four other cleaning concerns and the Belleville Laundry Co. Principal demands were union recognition and a wage increase averaging 10 cents an hour.
All of the companies have made terms with the union except the laundry and the Tate Dyeing &

TRIPLET SISTERS IN TRIPLE WEDDING AT CARTHAGE, N. Y.

Women, 24, Married in Church to Three Farmers, Two of Them Brothers.

By the Associated Press.
CARTHAGE, N. Y., June 1.—
Doris, Dora and Dorothy Zehr, triplets, 24 years old, were married at 8 a. m. today to three North Country farmers—two of them brothers.

In white satin gowns, the sisters came to the small Methodist Episcopal church here from their home in nearby Croghan for the second time in 24 hours. Last night, the triplets, daughters of Mrs. Flora Zehr, a widowed farm mother, rehearsed the triple ceremony for more than an hour as curious village folk watched through open church doors. Three times they marched up the aisle with their three sisters, Della, Pearl and Florence, as attendants and grouped themselves with other members of the wedding party about a crescent platform before the Rev. William K. Bradshaw.

Dorothy and Dora conceived the idea of a triple wedding when they became engaged to Sherman Kloster and his brother, Francis, respectively, young Belfort farmers.

Then Doris completed the plan by accepting the proposal of Dewey Hill of Lyons Falls, also a farmer.
The Kloster brothers and the triplets grew up together in the same school district in Northern
at 16.

The three pairs departed on a wedding trip together to visit relatives in Beloit, O.

PASTOR ARRESTED IN AUTO

DEATH OF OZARK, ARK., BOY

Stopped by Witnesses 200 Yards From Scene of Accident, Sheriff Says.

By the Associated Press.

OZARK, Ark., June 1.—The Rev. T. E. McSpadden, pastor of the Bethany Presbyterian Church of Muskogee, Ok., faced a hearing in Franklin County Circuit Court on charge of involuntary manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident today following the death of a 4-year-old Ozark boy.

The boy, Jerry Williams, was killed instantly when struck by an automobile on a downtown street.

Deputy Sheriff S. S. Crawford said the Rev. Mr. McSpadden was arrested 200 yards from the scene of the accident by Sheriff Champ Crawford and City Marshal Robert Lesley after he had been stopped by witnesses.

TEX RANKIN WINS

AEROBATIC PRIZE

IN STOCK PLANE

Veteran Movie Stunt Flyer

Receives $2000 and Trophy for Precision in Maneuvers.

RUMANIAN SECOND,

PAUL MANTZ THIRD

Crowds Estimated at 25,000 to 40,000 Last Two Days of Show—Several Heat Prostrations.

Tex Rankin, ruddy-faced 40-year-old Hollywood stunt flyer, won the International Aerobatic Competition and $2000 first prize from younger flyers on the third day of the air meet at Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday afternoon.

Before the competition opened Rankin, a veteran of more than 20 years of flying, told reporters he did not expect to equal the performances of some of his competitors because he was flying a stock model monoplane against ships especially adapted to stunting. This fact was considered by the judges in ranking him above his two closest competitors, Capt. Alexandro de Papan, flashy Rumanian aerobist, and Paul Mantz, Amelia Earhart's technical adviser and also a Hollywood stunt man.

Precision in the execution of the aerial maneuvers was the important factor in the competition, with showmanship and safety also counting. Rankin went through his final routine with the skill that comes of long practice and, while losing 25 points for performing at too high an altitude, he gained ground with one especially difficult maneuver in which he flew his ship on one side, and then on the other, performed a "one and a half" slow roll and recovered precisely flying on his other side. Besides the prize money, Rankin receives permanent possession of a gold and onyx trophy.

Rankin, regarded as the dean of American stunt flyers, for many years trained pilots at Portland, Ore. He developed the Rankin system of flight instruction and is the author of three technical aviation works. Survivor of 15 crashes, his recent work has been in the movies.

Rumanian a Favorite.

Capt. Papan, whose point rating was 269.4, as compared with Rankin's 282.7, displayed a more extensive repertoire than the other competitors, and was one of the spectators' favorites, but his execution was not as precise as that of the California veteran. In the opinion of the judges, the Rumanian, in a German-made biplane, spent the greater part of his time in the air flying on his back.

He performed half outside loops, inverted glides, double snap rolls, slow rolls while completing a figure eight, split turns and a neck-cracking whip stall. His exhibition was marked by almost uniform speed and the quiet operation of his 125-horsepower radial engine. He won the $1000 second prize.

Besides being an expert airman, Papan, 30 years old, has been junior tennis champion of Rumania, captain of his country's winter sports teams in Olympic competition, a member of the world champion two-man bobsled team in 1933, and holds Rumanian automobile and motorcycle racing records.

Mantz won $600 for third place, and Capt. Leonard J. Povey and Joe Mackey, fourth and fifth, respectively, received $250 each. Mantz's ship caught fire in the air, but the flames blew out before any serious damage resulted. Povey, American technical adviser to the Cuban Air Force, flying a military plane with a roaring Cyclone motor, was a favorite with the crowd. Mackey, from Findlay, O., thrilled the spectators by circling a streamer of white smoke from his plane while snap rolling.

Thousands See Show.

The air show was sponsored by the St. Louis Air Race Association, headed by George B. Logan, attorney. Sixty-three business men and flying enthusiasts put up $15,000 to cover expenses and $15,500 in prize money. Logan said he expected to have the financial result tomorrow. Profits, if any, are to go to a fund to make the meet an annual event. Crowds ranged from 12,000 on Saturday to throngs unofficially estimated at from 25,000 to 40,000 on Sunday and yesterday. Thousands of spectators viewed the events from parking places along Natural Bridge road and Lindbergh boulevard, and from the railroad embankment north of the airport.

A blazing sun caused many severe cases of sunburn among spectators and contestants and several persons were treated for heat prostration. James R. Ewing, managing director of the show, was a victim of heat and sunburn and spent the greater part of yesterday in the field dispensary.

Gus J. Goetz, winner.

The second major event of the afternoon, 50 miles over a five-mile triangular course, was won by Gus J. Goetz of Los Angeles, flying the Schoenfeldt Ride Special. Goetz, who had bad luck on Saturday, when he broke his propeller in a rough landing, flew a workmanlike race, whipping his tiny yellow speedster around the pylons and fairly leaping along the straightaways to overtake his fellow Californian, Marion McKee, who had got off to a fine start.

The winner's average speed was 251.6 miles an hour, winning $900, a leg on the Brewers' Association trophy and a smaller trophy. Goetz gave the crowd a thrill when he brought his tricky racer in for a landing, then went around again. He got down on the second try, the ship bouncing to a halt in mid-field.

Other Prizes Awarded.

McKee, second in the race, received $500; S. J. Wittman of Oak-kosh, Wis., won $300, third money, and Rudy A. Kling, Lemont, Ill., was a poor fourth, receiving $200. Kling, winner of Sunday's speed dash, had trouble with his retractable landing gear jammed around the course after the first two laps. Other prizes awarded at the close of the three-day meet were the Frank E. Phillips Trophy, which went to Art Chester, another Californian, for his victory Sunday in the race for commercial planes, and the John D. Brock Sweepstakes Award, presented to Roger Don Rae, Lansing, Mich., pilot, for his adept handling of his bullet-shaped racer in a crash landing Saturday after his propeller broke while he was speeding across the airport.

Rae, his forehead and one hand bandaged, was on hand to receive the award.

Chester announced that the trophy was his last racing prize, that he was quitting after seven years. Chester won a speed dash on Saturday's program with his tiny cream-colored monoplane, "The Jeep," averaging 253.5 miles an hour.

The only accident of the day was when M. C. Cox of Los Angeles, injured an ankle in winning the parachute spot landing contest. He is the husband of Faye Lucille Cox, who made the delayed opening parachute drop Sunday.

Earl Stein, "bat-man," dropped from a plane flying at 10,000 feet and maneuvered on his cloth wings two-thirds of the way down before snapping open his parachute. A group of navy planes demonstrated dive formations; Jimmie Murphy, stuntler, flew a monoplane off the top of a moving automobile and entertained the crowd with erratic slow and low flying, and the show closed with a mass parachute demonstration by 10 jumpers from one plane.

RISK FIRMS TO TEST LAW PRACTICE CHARGE

Insurance Companies Obtain Leave to Sue to Determine Employees' Status.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—Counsel for five mutual insurance companies doing a casualty insurance business in Missouri were granted leave by the Missouri Supreme Court today to file a test suit in Boone County Circuit Court to determine whether their employees engaged in the investigation and adjustment of claims actually are engaged in the unauthorized practice of law.

The suit will be filed against the Supreme Court's Bar Advisory Committee and Boyle G. Clark of Columbia, general chairman of the court's Bar Committees, which supervise enforcement of the Supreme Court's rules regulating the practice of law in Missouri. It was necessary to obtain leave from the Supreme Court to file the suit, because the general chairman and Advisory Committee are appointed by and are agents of the Supreme Court.

The petition for leave stated the question at issue was of major importance to virtually all insurance companies operating in Missouri, and their several thousand employees. Clark said the Advisory Committee have taken the position, it was said, that the companies, and their employees, were engaged in the unauthorized practice of law and were doing a law business, in connection with the investigation and adjustment of claims. The companies deny this.

The suit to be filed by the companies will request the Boone County Circuit Court to render a declaratory judgment, determining the legal question involved.

Companies filing the petition for leave were the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co., the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co., the Hardware Mutual Casualty Co., and the Employers' Mutual Liability Insurance Co. of Wisconsin. Several individual employees also were listed as petitioners.

HINDENBURG OFFICERS PRAISED LANDING CREW

Commander Rosendahl First Witness in Naval Inquiry Into Disaster.

By the Associated Press.

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 1.—Commander Charles R. Rosendahl told a Naval Board of Inquiry today that members of the Hindenburg crew and Zeppelin company officers were "most laudatory" of the work of the landing crew the night the giant airship was destroyed with a loss of 36 lives.

Rosendahl, commandant of the naval air station, was the first witness before the three-man Federal board, which opened its investigation in the same room where the Department of Commerce held hearings for three weeks.

Unlike the Commerce Board inquiry, which was directed into the causes of the disaster, the naval inquiry will be concerned with the preparations for mooring the ship. Capt. G. W. Haines of Fort Mifflin, Pa., senior member of the board, asked Commander Rosendahl whether he had received any complaints from the Zeppelin company or the Hindenburg crew in regard to the efforts to land the Hindenburg.

"I have not," Rosendahl replied. "On the contrary, the persons to whom you refer have been most laudatory."

Rosendahl praised the rescue work of the ground crew. "There were many outstanding rescues and other acts after the rescues which were beyond the call of duty," he said.

Three Navy men and three civilian members of the ground crew were injured, and one civilian killed in the ship's flaming destruction, he said.

SUIT TO DISBAR

to have been a participant in the scheme.

In a fourth case described in the petition, Mrs. Alden Kennedy, it is alleged, agreed to be "hit" by an automobile driven by a man familiar with the plan after she had undergone an illegal operation. After the accident, however, her husband refused to permit her to sign a contract with Parkinson, the petition says, and she collected $750 in private negotiations with the insurance company which covered the automobile involved.

The petition sets forth that Payne and the man who drove the automobile subsequently asked the Kennedys to divide the $750 with them and Parkinson but the Kennedys refused.

Members of the committee are Boyle G. Clark, Columbia, chairman; Grover C. Sibley, St. Louis; James A. Parks, Clinton; J. C. Grover, Kansas City; J. D. James, Joplin; Albert F. Hillix, Kansas City.

Parkinson, 60 years old, was formerly a political associate of Boss Tom Pendergast, and has been active in Democratic politics for years. Early in his career he was a member of the State Legislature. His wife, the former Mildred Stone, was a daughter of the late United States Senator William Stone. The Parkinson family is socially prominent in St. Joseph.

Parkinson declined to comment on the disbarment action after it had been filed. He was represented in hearings before the Bar Committee by former United States Senator James A. Reed and Robert J. Ingraham.

MOVE TO DISBAR PURTEET ON EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

State Bar Committee Files Motion Against Former State Official.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—A motion to disbar James Don Purteet, former Assistant Attorney General of Missouri, was filed in the Supreme Court today by the State Bar Advisory Committee, headed by Boyle G. Clark of Columbia.

The motion was based on Purteet's confession, made at Kansas City April 10, that he had embezzled about $15,000 from the estate of a disabled World War veteran for whom he was guardian. It was pointed out that Purteet had offered to surrender his license to practice law.

Purteet last month was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on his plea of guilty to a charge of embezzlement.

STATE SENATE PASSES BILLS APPROPRIATING $57,000,000

Only $3,400,000 Comes Out of General Revenue; Rest Is Made Up of Fees, Licenses.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—Appropriation bills carrying more than $57,000,000 and covering expenses of the penal and eleemosynary institutions, State highway patrol, Highway Department and the Legislature for 1937-38 were passed by the Senate yesterday.

Although all had passed the House, the Senate action was final on only two—the Highway Department and highway patrol. The others must go back to the House because of Senate changes.

Of the total approved yesterday, slightly less than $8,400,000 would come from the State's general revenue fund, the rest from earnings, fees and licenses. Appropriations for the Legislature's expenses were set at $355,000 by the Senate, as compared to $300,000 set aside two years ago. The contingent fund of the Senate—from which salaries of employees and other expenses are paid—was set at $100,000 this session as compared to $90,000 two years ago, and that of the House at $150,000 as compared to $115,000 in the 1935 session. Pay and mileage of members of both Houses was set at $105,000, compared to $95,000 two years ago.

CONGRESSIONAL VIEWS OF TAX MESSAGE

Republicans and Democrats Indorse Move to Stop Evasions.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 1.—Both Republicans and Democrats in Congress indorsed today the general thought back of President Roosevelt's proposal to end tax evasion.

Minority Leader McNary (Rep., Oregon), said: "I very much prefer the plan offered by the Senator from Mississippi (Harrison) to that suggested in the President's message. We will have control of this investigation, and I believe that is wiser and more wholesome."

Whereas the President asked for additional authority for the Treasury to make the inquiry, Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee proposed an investigation by a joint congressional committee of 12.

Senator Byrd of Virginia, whose advocacy of prompt budget-balancing has often put him at odds with the administration, expressed "general approval" of the President's message and said he believed Congress would act speedily to halt evasions.

He said he would submit two tax measures of his own, one to stop issuance of tax-exempt securities and the other authorizing the Federal Government to tax State employees' incomes and the states to levy on Federal employees' pay.

Constitutional amendments may be necessary, Byrd said, although he said he hoped to find a way to accomplish his aims by legislation. Senator Vandenberg (Rep., Michigan), said he wished "there might be as much enthusiasm about stopping loopholes in expenditures as there seems to be in stopping loopholes in revenue."

"Because," Vandenberg said, "if we took all the income of the tax dodgers, we still would be sunk in a tragic deficit. So while we courageously build up revenue, let's be equally courageous in tearing down expenditures."

Senator Clark of Missouri, a member of the Finance Committee, said "everybody is in favor of closing the loopholes" and added that he also was "in favor of any move to disclose the loopholes."

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina said "we ought to legislate to tighten up and prevent avoidance" and "prosecute evasions." He added that "publicity is going to stop evasions, even if we can't legislate against them."

"The testimony is going to put the fear of God into the evaders," he said.

DEAN OF NEW YORK U. DIES, FOUND ILL IN LABORATORY

Authorities Reluctant to Give Details of Death of Dr. John Wyckoff.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Dr. John Wyckoff, 55-year-old dean of the New York University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College, died early today several hours after he was found unconscious in a laboratory.

Police and hospital authorities were reluctant to divulge details. Dr. Wyckoff's illness first was listed as morphine poisoning but later as coronary thrombosis. A note addressed to the dean's wife was found but not made public.

Dr. Wyckoff had been dean of the Medical College since 1932, and had been on the teaching staff since 1913. He had served both as associate professor and professor of medicine, and was secretary of the college from 1916 to 1932.

Dr. Samuel A. Brown, dean emeritus of the medical college, said Dr. Wyckoff's death undoubtedly was caused by coronary thrombosis from which he had suffered for the last five years. The evidence of morphine, Dr. Brown said, indicated Dr. Wyckoff had had a seizure and had taken the narcotic to ease the pain.

JUDGE COLLET SITS FIRST TIME IN ST. LOUIS DIVISION

After Serving in Western Missouri Federal District, Moves to Eastern.

John Caskie Collet, former Judge of the Missouri Supreme Court, recently appointed to the newly created United States district judgeship in Missouri, sat today for the first time in the St. Louis division.

There were no ceremonies upon his taking the bench in Courtroom No. 3 at the new Federal Building. About a month will be required to clear his docket of civil and criminal cases requiring trial before a jury. Judge Collet who alternates between the eastern and western districts of Missouri, sat last week in the northeast division of the eastern district at Hannibal. Previously, he had heard cases at Kansas City.

Judge Collet found the furnishings for his chambers adjoining the courtroom had not arrived and took a temporary office in Room 519.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

THIS Hollywood atmosphere is supposed to be the most exciting and thrilling in the world. People come out here from all over the country just in hopes of gettin' a little glimpse of it. Some people have been right in it so long, they've gotten used to it, but I've only been in it a short while and a lot'a folks wonder why I don't get excited about it. I guess I ain't just of an excitable nature. I come from a line of people that seem to take everything very calmly. One day, when Grandpaw Snelson and a hired hand was tarrin' the roof, Grandpaw slipped and fell off. The hired hand went rushin' into the room where Grandmaw was sittin' and says "Your husband jest fell off the roof." Grandmaw yawned and said "Yes, I jest saw him pass the window!"

The Lead in Short Suit

By Ely Culbertson

(Copyright, 1937.)
A SHORT-SUIT lead often will serve to establish one or more ruffing winners for you. Caution must be exercised, however. You should lead ace alone or A-K alone only if you are almost certain that your partner has an entry and if you have an otherwise worthless trump card with which you are anxious to ruff. The opening lead of a low king in a suit your partner has not bid must be viewed with suspicion, but it is a good opening lead if you have a sure entry in trumps together with at least one worthless trump (A x or K x x, not K x alone) and a virtually sure entry to your partner's hand.

Fourth highest from a suit headed by king or queen is a dangerous attacking lead, but should be made when it seems important to establish as many winners as possible immediately. This type of lead often should be made against a small slam contract when you have no better attacking lead available.

It has struck me as very curious that in many duplicate contract matches the same error of bidding or play is likely to occur at many tables. Apparently, mob psychology makes its insidious influence felt even at the bridge table. A certain hands seem to be natural traps for certain types of players. The hand shown below caused grief to no less than six North-South teams out of a total of 10 that played in a recent New York duplicate.

HOLLYWOOD, May 31. IF YOU have any idea of coming out to Hollywood to be a movie star via the extra route you will have to bring along $11.25 more than you counted upon. For, as a result of the Screen Actors' Guild agreement with the producers, every player MUST be a member of the organization. Extra players must join the Junior Guild, which is the same thing, only less expensive. Nobody is barred from joining. If you want to be an extra all you have to do is to satisfy the Guild committee that you mean to stick to the game and plunk down a $10 initiation fee and $1.25 for three months dues in advance. After that try and get a job. That's all there is to it.

However, that $11.25 is going to make things righter for the budding actors who are really set upon acting and who do not look upon getting a few days extra work now and then just as a lark. For one thing the entrance fee and the regular dues is expected to cut close to 10,000 girls and boys now on the extra rolls off the list immediately. The studios, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Central Casting office and even the Government has tried to keep the list down to a point where there would be something like enough jobs to enable the extra people to make a living out of the picture business. But arguments and printed appeals to keep away from Hollywood had no effect and the names duly registered at Central Casting—the extras "hiring hall"—has reached the staggering figure of about 17,000. This means that even the best of 'em found jobs few and far between. Since the new closed shop, limiting the hiring strictly to Guild members, went into effect 3652 extra players have joined the junior branch. Eventually, the officers predict, the total will probably reach 7500. Even that is too many but with the pay raised from the former minimum of $3 to $5.50 per day things will be a bit easier for the struggling teens.

THERE was a humorous side to the announcement the other day that the striking studio workers would call upon union men and women the country over to stay away from all pictures in which Robert Montgomery is present. The Screen Actors' Guild, and Humphrey Bogart, Eddie Arnold and Franchot Tone, members of the Guild's executive committee, appeared, charging that they were responsible for the Guild making peace with the studios while the strike still was on. Now a great many of the high salaried stars have been entirely in sympathy with the striking painters and the other unions which walked out after the Guild adjusted its own differences with the producers a lot of the big players kicked in with a pretty good sized piece of coin to aid the strikers' fund. The money was mailed to the strike headquarters several hours before the boycott call was issued but did not reach there until after the call had gone out. Heading the list, according to reports, were the names of Montgomery, Arnold, Tone and Bogart.

Immediately after the strikers' officers issued another announcement to the effect that the rumored boycott was all a mistake and had not been authorized. YOU will hear a good deal from now on about the tremendous amount of money which the studios will invest in new pictures this year. Million dollar productions are becoming two million dollar affairs, extras' pay, as has been told, is going up, taxes are climbing and all that sort of thing. All of which, or at least a greater part, is quite true but the reason for the extensive publicity is the fact that the studio heads, anxious to "do something for the poor owners of the movie theaters"—many of which they own or control themselves—are trying to pave the way for passing the added costs on to the cinema customers in the way of increased admission charges to the picture houses. The prospective rise is on the fire. It may come to a boil any time now.

FROM what we gather, a lot of agitation over plush caps has been aroused on the "Artists and Moders" set in Hollywood. Raoul Walsh, the director, was a great trouble to get five of them so his artists would actually look like artists, and not like tenors or White Russian exiles.

Those chosen to wear these plush headpieces include MacClennan Barclay, Peter Arno, Russell Patterson, John LaGatta, Arthur William Brown and Rube Goldberg. They are along Washington Square and in Greenwich Village must be seen single one after tramping through the streets, walked in and out of before doors, and half the magazines next month doomed to be without pictures.

Barclay made a grab for the heap of tam-o'shanter on Walsh's table, and then all on with feverish haste, and was overjoyed to find one that would fit. It gave him a new respect for Hollywood to think it had such a stack of artists' caps on hand when he couldn't find a single one after tramping through the streets, walked in and out of before doors, and half the magazines next month doomed to be without pictures.

Nobody had thought about her particularly until Director Henry Hathaway saw her tested for a bit role in Paramount's historical maritime saga, "Souls at Sea," which co-stars Gary Cooper and George Raft. But Hathaway was enthusiastic. So enthusiastic that he surprised everybody—including the girl herself—by casting her in is one of the axioms in Hollywood that no artist, whether he be a Goya, El Greco or Rube Goldberg, is qualified to act in films unless he is garbed in the romantic insignia of his calling. A little trouble arose when Goldberg arrived at the Paramount studio and learned that a velvet cap, the size of a sofa pillow, was mandatory. In his New York studio he wears a derby hat, all covered with gobs of hardened paint, as if he cleans his palette knife on it, which he does.

La Gatta and Brown wore bareheaded and in shirt sleeves. Peter Arno wears a duster, but also owns a plush cap, which he keeps in a trunk away from the soot to wear at masquerade balls and the jinks of the Illustrators' Club. He had one made to order for $8, and after this got lost at a party he had a cheaper one made for $2, and after 10 years nobody has stolen it.

HOLLYWOOD'S Cinderella of the moment is a little French girl, barely 11, who just can't talk English when she gets excited. A few months ago she was practically unknown in the film colony. She had danced briefly in a few pictures, walked in and out of a few straight dramatic scenes without ever being noticed, and had never come within 20 feet of a closeup.

Nobody had thought about her particularly until Director Henry Hathaway saw her tested for a bit role in Paramount's historical maritime saga, "Souls at Sea," which co-stars Gary Cooper and George Raft. But Hathaway was enthusiastic. So enthusiastic that he surprised everybody—including the girl herself—by casting her in the coveted role opposite George Raft instead of in the bit. When he broke the news to her, the story goes, little Olive Branda was so excited she couldn't talk English for half an hour.

Because the picture hasn't been released yet, she's still an unknown in the film world, but despite the brevity of her years, Olive Branda has had more theatrical experience than most actresses twice her age.

She was born in a box at the Olympic Theater in Paris, between the afternoon and evening performances. Hence her first name, which in French sounds something like "O-lamp," but in Hollywood is usually changed to "O-lim-py," which is a relief that comes with it like suddenly getting a tight ship off.

"That's what happened to me the other day when I went into a clinic on gall-bladder disease. It was by a surgeon, and you would think that surgeons would be in favor of that is why he made such a hit with me. He said that when a gall-bladder gets actually inflamed it is dangerous to operate on the patient until the acute phase has subsided. So far as he knew, that was working in my favor, and that operation should be done immediately in order to prevent this. This surgeon reported that 24 per cent of his acute gall-bladder infections had perforated.

Osa Johnson, widow of Martin Johnson and his constant co-camera explorer in Africa is to make a tour to the Dark Continent to take pictures for the Twentieth Century-Fox's "Stanley and Livingston." Sam Hellman is writing the scenario, but it won't be a comedy. Jack Holt's boy, Tim, is working in the new version of "Stella Dallas." Oscar Homolka, British star, began work this week in his first American picture, "Ebb Tide," a film which Paramount is making in Technicolor.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney is reported to be casting eyes in the direction of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind." Since Mr. Whitney is the man back of the bank roll in the Selznick International Films organization, her desire to play the part cannot be tossed aside lightly. Believe it or not a stand-in has been found for Andy Devine who looks just like the real thing. Sounds improbable, but it is true. Several acute inflammations which occur inside the abdomen which are best not operated on during the acute stage because the patient is too much in shock. Besides the gall-bladder, there is acute inflammation of the tube. When the acute stage has passed, it is safe to do the operation. The patient usually feels better then and wants to put it off. But he should remember that the attack is likely to recur and should co-operate with the surgeon and make such practices as Dr. Gibbs described unnecessary.

Unadvisable Operations On Abdomen

Acute Gall-Bladder and Other Inflammations Best Reduced First.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

MY OLD friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs, attended the meeting of the American College of Physicians. "Every once in a while," he says, "you meet a fellow who is so clear headed and honest that he clears up a subject that has been lying around in your mind in a sort of muddled state, and there's a relief that comes with it like suddenly getting a tight ship off."

"That's what happened to me the other day when I went into a clinic on gall-bladder disease. Curly Hair Ends

By Gladys Glad

Dear Miss Glad:
I HAVE a slight natural wave in my hair, and the waves near the top of my head are very deep and even. The ends of my hair always look so straight, however, and I would like to have the ends terminate in ringlets. Could I possibly have the ends of my hair permanently waved? Would it take the natural wave out of my hair?

A permanent wave, if correctly administered, will not take the natural wave out of the hair. The only side to the other? (4) We are wearing caps and gowns for graduation. Problems of Propriety for Graduations

By Martha Carr

Caps and Gowns at Ceremony—Dress for Commencement Exercises.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Carr: I'll answer the following questions on graduation etiquette: (1) Is it correct to remove the tissue paper that comes in invitations before they are sent out? (2) Which side of the cap should the tassel be worn on before it is changed? (3) When should the tassel be changed from one side to the other? (4) We are wearing caps and gowns for graduation. Should the boys wear their caps through the services or should they be removed during prayer, and if they are removed, should they be replaced as soon as prayer is over? (5) Should caps be worn at an angle or should they be placed straight on the head? (6) May the girls wear corsages on their gowns? Answer: (1) You remove the tissue paper unless the ink is wet. (2) The tassel hangs on the left side. (3) The tassel is not changed at all. (4) The girls wear their caps throughout services and never remove them. The boys take their caps off for a religious service. That is, if part of the service is held in church, they take them off as they go up the aisle to their places and put them on again as they go out. If the services are held elsewhere than in a church, they take their caps off for prayer, and put them on again afterwards. The boys wear their caps when they go up to receive their degrees. They receive the degree in the left hand and at the same time take off their caps in the right hand and bow to the president of the university or whoever is handing them the degrees, and then they put their caps on again. The girls take their degrees and bow but do not remove their caps. (5) On no account should the caps be worn at an angle. It is not suitable that this emblem of scholastic knowledge be rakishly thrust on one side of the head or tipped over one eyebrow. (6) No. It is just as improper to pin flowers on a college gown as it would be to pin a boutonniere on the uniform of a soldier.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for the graduation class to wear semi-formals for commencement exercises? The community thinks we should wear street dresses. Answer: It is always proper that the graduating class wear long dresses even at a morning hour, but they must in no sense be evening dresses. That is, they should have high backs and puffed or other "real" sleeves. Long full skirts are suitable as well as very pretty. Of course the prettiest possible effect is made by their being all alike.

"They Give Themselves That

T'S ONE of those stories that somehow you never read. Yet you'll find its duplicate in a thousand offices and homes. So if my fingers fumble and my eyes blue with grateful tears, maybe you'll understand—because you're lucky enough to have a Sam of your own.

Sam Paquin. For many a year that name has been over 'tops newspaper jobs all over these United States. Now he's the final Blue Pencil Authority who checks copy in my organization. Reads it over... polishes it off... gets it down to the printers and off to the paper on schedule, no matter how late it arrives.

Some job—that! Riding herd on a hundred more-or-less loco writers... standing steady when the lids are popping off... Does Sam ever, I wonder, get home on time for a meal? Bet not! Night after night I've seen him bending over his desk when everyone else has gone... helping some poor nut to make a desperate "deadline."

Being late with your copy—that's bad enough, with Empty Space yapping and yelling from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate. But there are things still harder to manage... things that only Sam knows. Sick-nose. Times when the doctor has handed you a scare that would jolt the Empire State. Trouble in the family. Two operations, a wedding, a baby and a mortgage coming due all at once. Gosh, how do they think you can manage to pay for it all?

And the old heartache that never heals. Dates that, just remembering, get you down. That last smile... those ghastly hours... Perhaps if you'd acted sooner... Oh, God, little kid, I miss you!

So you write, and write frantically... trying to beat the rap. Feeling it's all tripe... that you'd better quit—

And then—careless like—comes a letter from Sam. Never a mention of work. Just a friendly ramble about "The Gang." A well thing he'd heard some one say... how politics were stacking in Tennessee... and the Kid Daughter was doing herself proud with that new assignment... and the Little Irish Wife was prettier than the day they married.

Only a careless, neighborly note. But looking out, into the night, you see a tired man bending over his desk. Staying in a cluttered, deserted office because your copy's late. Pounding out of simple, everyday, kindly words because he knows you need a hand. Putting aside his own worry to serve yours. Soothing away your terror and giving you FAITH instead... faith to believe in yourself because Sam believes in you!

Just Sam! Suddenly, as though the tears had washed your eyes clean for a wider vision, you see that vast throng of other "Sams" who also serve through the long night. Patient, adoring mothers... loving, unselfish fathers... get-late-youngsters, sacrificing their own chances to give someone a better break. Common folk—leading lives that may never make the Front Page. And yet, what was it He had said—He who knew best how to handle and value of simple every-ice? "Greater love hath no man than that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Clear through the night in a shining trail, more splendid than gold, more glorious than precious jewels, these unknown ones proceed upon their gentle way... "laying down" hour by hour, their constant gift of FAITH and CHEER and UNDERSTANDING TENDERNESS... giving themselves that others, distraught and bewildered, may live!

CHAPTER THREE.
T is, no doubt, easy to write platitudes and generalities about the joys of giving, and the duty that one owes to one's fellow men, and to put together again all the familiar phrases that have served for generations whenever the subject has been taken up.

I can hardly hope to succeed in starting any new interest in this great subject when gifted writers have so often failed. Yet I confess to find much more interest in it than they. The mere expenditure of money for things, so I am told by those who profess to know, soon pall upon one. The novelty of being able to purchase anything one wants soon passes, because what people most seek cannot be bought with money.

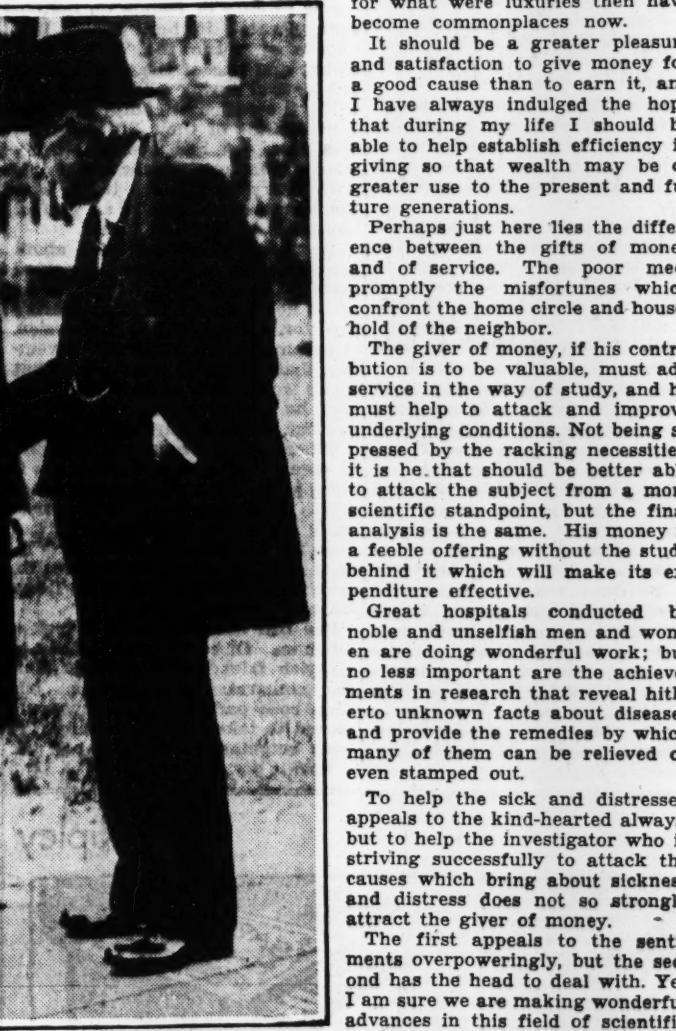

THESE rich men we read about in the newspapers cannot get personal returns beyond a well-defined limit for their expenditure. The pleasure of gratifying the pleasures of the palate beyond very moderate bounds, since they cannot purchase a good digestion; they cannot lavish very much money on fine raiment for out-suffering from public ridicule; and in their homes they cannot go much beyond the comforts of the less wealthy without pain to pleasure.

As I study wealthy men, I can see but one way in which they can secure a real equivalent for money spent, and that is to cultivate a taste for giving where the money may produce an effect that will be a lasting gratification.

A man of business may often most properly consider that he does his share in building up a property which gives steady work for few or many people; and his contribution consists in giving to his employees good working conditions, are not needed fail, and ought to fall. On the other hand, the one thing which such a business philosopher would be most careful to avoid in his investments of time and effort or money, is the unnecessary duplication of existing industries. He would regard all money spent in increasing needless competition as wasted, and worse.

The man who puts up a second factory when the factory in existence will supply the public demand adequately and cheaply is wasting the national wealth and destroying the national prosperity, taking the bread from the laborer and unnecessarily introducing heartache and misery into the world.

Probably the greatest single obstacle to the progress and happiness of the American people lies in the willingness of so many men to invest their time and money in multiplying competitive industries instead of opening up new fields, and putting their money into lines of industry and development that are needed.

It requires a better type of mind to seek out and to support or to create the new than to follow the worn paths of accepted success, but here is the great chance in our rapidly developing country. The penalty of a selfish attempt to make the world confer a living without contributing to the progress or happiness of mankind is generally a failure to the individual. The pity is that where he goes down he inflicts heartache and misery also on others who are in no way responsible.

PROBABLY the most generous people in the world are the very poor, who assume each other's burdens in the crises which come so often to the hard pressed. The mother in the tenement falls ill and the neighbor in the next room assumes her burdens. The father loses his work, and neighbors supply food to his children from their own scanty store. How often one hears of cases where the orphans are taken over and brought up by the poor friend whose benefaction means great ad-

Boys Require Companionship Of Own Age

Short Period of Growth Necessitates Associations for Development.

By Angelo Patri

BOYS have to play and work and live together to get the best out of their growing time, which is all too short. No grown person can ever take the place of companions of the boy's own age. They learn quickly and easily from each other, accept guidance, praise and punishment from each other and thrive mightily while they would wilt under the same treatment from a well-intentioned adult.

It is a great mistake to keep a boy closely confined to his own company and that of his family. He has to get beyond the family limits to sample life, test it, make it work. There is a great difference between working with a member of the family and working with an outsider. The family contribution is likely to be coals to Newcastle. The child knows every wrinkle of thought in the family group and gains little except bare experience by close association with it. Every outsider has another point of view, another way of thinking and doing, and the newness stimulates the children.

Boys more than 10 years old have to hunt in packs. They gather in bunches at recess at playtime, and they all talk at once, move together in the same direction, do the same thing about the same time and argue endlessly about it. That is a pattern of boy life, and it is a healthy one to follow. The but and the gang and the club are essential to these youngsters as milk with their cereal in the morning. Prepare the way for them.

Just as soon as it is possible let the lad join the Boy Scouts and encourage him to take the whole course. He will get far out of it and much education not found in books. He does what his associates do, and if that is good to do he is in the midst of goodness multiplied by the numbers in the squad. He draws strength from his brothers who are all going his way.

AT THIS stage of a boy's life a hike along a country road with a campfire lunch at the end of it, a scouting trip through the woods or along a stream, a fish hooked and laid in the basket in anticipation of supper, the essential to these youngsters as milk with their cereal in the morning. Prepare the way for them. Just as soon as it is possible let the lad join the Boy Scouts and encourage him to take the whole course. He will get far out of it and much education not found in books. He does what his associates do, and if that is good to do he is in the midst of goodness multiplied by the numbers in the squad. He draws strength from his brothers who are all going his way.

Encourage the boys to join the Scouts. Then help the Scout Master do a good job. Praise every mark of his good influence and never, if you truly value that work, deride that influence. Don't say, "And you're a Boy Scout. Fine Scout, you are. I thought Boy Scouts knew something." That is the best possible way to kill all interest in the idea. Try the other way.

"Glad you're going out tomorrow. Always good to you good. You're getting a good tan, too. Looking like a regular Scout. You might need an extra quarter tomorrow, eh? You've got enough? Good Scouting. Still, you never can tell. You might need it. 'Twon't take up much room. Hope you have a good day."

Help a good idea along. Root for your own Scout and never miss a chance to cheer for the crew. The boys need both the Scouts and the cheers.

If the gas burners of the stove make a roaring noise it indicates there is too much air coming through.

VIEW OF WAGE AND HOUR BILL GIVEN TO CONGRESSMEN

Robert H. Jackson Refers to Supreme Court Decisions as Basis for Belief Regulatory Measure Would Be Sustained.

PROPOSES ATTACK ON CHILD LABOR RULING

Asks House and Senate Members to Give Courts Chance 'to Remove This Blemish from Our Judicial History.'

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—Robert H. Jackson, an Assistant United States Attorney-General, told a joint congressional committee today that long-established precedents were the basis for the Roosevelt administration's proposed wage and hour bill.
Except for its child labor provision, he said, the bill was backed by previous definitions of Federal power to regulate interstate commerce. The bill is designed to fix minimum wages and maximum hours of work in all industries, except agriculture, on the theory that even those which seemingly are intrastate in character affect interstate commerce.
The bill would bar from interstate commerce the products of children less than 16 years old and of workers subjected to "oppressive" conditions. The definition of "oppressive" will be written by Congress. The measure also would forbid interstate industries to use strike-breakers or industrial spies.
He asked for approval of the measure partly as a challenge to a 1918 Supreme Court decision invalidating the original Federal child labor law. "Remove this blemish from our judicial history," he urged.
Refers to Recent Decisions.
Jackson cited recent Supreme Court decisions giving Congress broader powers over interstate commerce.
"During this flash of liberalism that illuminates a judicial record, otherwise pretty black for labor," he said, "we may reasonably hope that after being balked a score of years, Congress will now be sustained in adding to the list of interstate contraband what Mr. Justice Holmes so aptly called 'the product of ruined lives,' and in establishing commerce among the states on the basis of industrial justice to disadvantaged men."
Jackson gave his opinion as to the constitutionality of the proposal before a hearing room half filled with newspaper men and spectators.
Chairman Black (Dem.), Alabama, of the Senate Labor Committee presided.
Child Labor Decision.
After citing various court decisions which he said supported the effort of Congress to regulate working conditions in interstate commerce, Jackson turned to the child labor decision.
"A commerce clause broad enough to protect the children of the rich from kidnapping would seem not to be abused if it should also protect the children of the poor from exploitation," he contended.
"The court's decision sheltering child labor from Federal action could affect only a part of the bill at most. But if it were overruled it would permit a simple and more understandable dealing with the question."
"We owe it to our times to challenge the perversion of our Constitution injected into our law by the child labor decision. This bill would challenge it. We should give the courts a chance to remove this blemish from our judicial history."
"The doctrine of the majority in the child labor case belongs to the dark era of legal thought as the decision holding that the minimum wage law was unconstitutional."
The Supreme Court reversed the minimum wage case this year.
Jackson, former counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, heads the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice which handled legal matters connected with the National Recovery Administration.
Each Part Complete.
The attempt is to consolidate in a single bill, Jackson said, "all hopeful approaches to constitutionality, each complete in itself, so that if one, or more, falls at the hands of the court, we will not be left for an interval while a new bill is being adopted."
Asserting the Supreme Court had receded from earlier decisions in its minimum wage and National Labor Relations ruling this year, Jackson
